A WEEKLY NEWSLETTER FOR THE STAFF OF LANE COMMUNITY COLLEGE, 200 NORTH MONROE STREET, EUGENE, OREGON

KLCC OK'd

The call letters KLCC have been officially assigned to Lane Community College's new FM radio station, effective August 7.

Word of the authorization was received from the Federal Communications Commission the past weekend following petition by the Board of Education asking that these letters be awarded the College station.

The station, used as a classroom for broadcasting students, is on the air 6 hours each weekday during the school year, and will be affiliated this year with the Tape Network of National Education Radio, making a wide variety of material available for broadcasting.

KLCC broadcasts on a 90.3 mc, FM Channel 212, with a power of 450 watts. Plans are to start programming on the 25th of September for the 1967-68 college year.

THE GANG'S ALL HERE

Associate Dean of Instruction Ray LaGrandeur assumed his duties at LCC on Tuesday, August 1. Dr. LaGrandeur's family is still in Bellevue, Washington, waiting completion of their new home in Eugene. They plan to move this coming weekend.

"I am delighted to be part of this dynamic new institution," Dr. LaGrandeur said, "and am looking forward to a very challenging year in 1967-68."

Dr. LaGrandeur's arrival places all members of the 1967-68 administrative team on the job at LCC.

INTRODUCING:

Several new faces have joined the Classified personnel at LCC, starting work on July 1. On the Eugene Campus are Phyllis Burtraw, Secretary to Dr. Kenneth Hills; Carolyn Ogden, Secretary to Carl Blood and Roger Houglum; Claire Carson, Secretary to William Wright; Barbara Harmon, Secretary to Frances Howard; Sandra Hoffman, in the Adult Education Office; and Bette Scranton, Secretary to William Mansell. New on the Bethel Campus are Cheryl Jacobs, Secretary to John Howard and John Jacobs; and JoAnne Keeney, Secretary to Gerald Rasmussen and Cecil Hodges.

Howard Hammond, Clerk-of-the-Works for new campus construction, is working at the East 30th Avenue site. Farrell Trowbridge is a new custodian at the Springfield Campus.

FAIR TIME PLANS

LCC will have an exhibit at the Lane County Fair again this year, featuring descriptions of programs and new campus construction. The exhibit will be presented in booths 28 and 29 in the Commercial Building during the Fair, August 22-26.

Counselors and students will be on hand to discuss programs and activities with interested persons.

MAIL ON THE MOVE

The College Mail Room has been moved from the Business Office to the Information Center in the main hall on the Eugene Campus. Vicki Stegall is in charge of all mail, both outside and inter-campus.

REPORTS IN TRIPLICATE

Chairmen of 3 Summer Committees gave comprehensive reports of the groups' activities at the Staff work session last week.

Robert Norman reported the Faculty Load Committee has collected data and is now assessing the information and compiling a final report.

"LCC has an opportunity to develop a unique evaluation procedure," William Morris, Evaluation Committee Chairman reported, "since no other college contacted has developed a formal evaluation procedure."

The Professional Growth and In-Service Committee is planning for the "September Seminar" meetings which begin September 11. Delpha Daggett heads the Committee and reports ample time is being allowed for individual work as well as group sessions. A full agenda will be in the mail soon.

CAMPUS ITEMS

The next regular meeting of the LCC Board of Education will be Wednesday, August 16, at 7:30 pm in the Board Room on the Eugene Campus.

* * * * *

604 students are completely registered to date for Fall Term classes.

* * * * *

Several local business people connected with food management have been invited to serve as an interim study group to develop curriculums for the LCC Food Service Program to be started in the fall of 1968.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Best wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to George Mast, Assistant Professor of Mechanics, ill with blood-poisoning; and to Edith Jones, Assistant Professor of Business Education, who is recovering from ear surgery.

* * * * *

Irene Parent, LCC Counselor-Instructor, is heading the committee for arrangements for Women's Day on Campus, to be held this year in the Agriculture Building at the Lane County Fairgrounds, October 26.

SUMMER CLEAN-UP

If things look brighter around the campuses lately much can be attributed to Darwin McCarroll's clean-up crew. The Work-Study students under Mac's supervision have been washing windows, cleaning grounds, planting flowers, and sprucing up in general.

One of their latest projects has been to spray poison oak at the new campus site preparatory to making a picnic area overlooking the new campus construction.

NEW LOOK FOR HANDBOOK

The 1967-68 Staff Handbook will have a "new look." After critical discussion by staff members and administration, the book is undergoing revision, with Larry Romine as editor. The handbook will be completed in time for distribution at the "September Seminar" meetings.

DO-IT-YOURSELF TEACHERS

Funds are expected soon to activate the Teacher Aide Program scheduled for this fall, Robert Marshall, MDTA Director, said today. The pilot program will be given in cooperation with the Bethel School District and the University of Oregon under a federal research project.

The program will permit students to take classes half-days at LCC while working as teachers aides half-days in the Bethel District. After completion of the two-year course at LCC, students can work towards a Bachelors degree at the University of Oregon while continuing to work as assistant teachers at Bethel.

Financing of the program is being negotiated at the present time through federal agencies and, pending approval, it is expected hiring of staff will begin soon.

CONGRATULATIONS CORNER

It's Doctor Robert Hamill as of last Saturday morning, when LCC's Director of Institutional Research received his D. Ed. from the University of Oregon during the summer graduation ceremonies.

The same day Keith Harker, LLRC Director, donned cap and gown to receive his Masters degree in Library Sciences at Saturday's rites.

Florence Heddon, secretary to Dean William Hein, was in the audience to beam proudly as son Gary graduated from Honors College and received his Bachelor of Arts degree.

** HAPPY BIRTHDAY **

Birthday greetings go to these staff members whose birthdays fall in the last half of August:

John Young, 14th; Gene Parro, 15th; Rhoda Love, 16th; Hugh Cowley, 17th; Cecil Hodges, 17th; William Wright and William Cox, 20th; Edna Kennel, 21st; Bernice Flemming and Margaret Knutson, the 22nd; Mabel Armstrong, 23rd; James Brock, 24th; Richard Fraga, 28th; Hazel Stephenson, 29th; and Ellen Goldsmith, 31st.

SMALL HANDBOOK BIG BARGAIN

GiGi Gamble, editor of the TITAN Code, reports this year's student handbook is being distributed without cost to students registering for Fall Term.

The handbook is pocket size this year for greater convenience in carrying; and contains monthly activity calendars for the college year.

Anyone desiring a copy of the TITAN CODE may pick one up in the Registrar's office.

BEGINNING OF THE END -----

332 students are attending the third summer session at LCC Mable Kennedy of Student Records reported today. The session began August 14 and will run for three weeks.

Registration in the first two sessions averaged 400 students each.

Opal Alford, President of Faculty Wives, reports the club has been inactive this summer, but plans to schedule a meeting shortly after the start of Fall Term.

-----

The Robert Marshalls spent their vacation showing his mother, visiting from Pennsylvania, a sample of Oregon's scenic and recreational attractions. Trips were made up the McKenzie; along the coast from Brookings to Newport; to Diamond Lake and Crater Lake. They also attended one performance of the Shakespeare Festival at Ashland; then made the mail boat trip up the Rogue; and later in the week enjoyed ocean fishing from a charter boat.

-----

It was golf, golf, golf for Pauline Dixon during her summer off. Pauline is back on duty in the counseling center helping to register LCC's in-coming students.

-----

Carl Blood, Industrial Technology Division Chairman, plans to spend his vacation working on his house. (Asked if he was building a new home he answered, "No, just finishing up the one I started 20 years ago.")

-----

Millie Hartstrom, Assistant Professor of Business Education, was back in school, doing graduate work at the University of Oregon. (Millie did manage a short visit "home" to Astoria to visit her family.)

-----

LCC custodial staff members are wearing new uniforms of dark green with white LCC emblems on the shirts. Pretty sharp!

AND STILL THEY COME

Fall Term registration is speeding up as students hurry to beat the "full-class" notices which are beginning to appear on the class schedule board in the hall near the Registrar's office. As of Tuesday morning completed registrations stood at 833, quite a bit ahead of last year's total of approximately 600 for mid-August.

There have been some recent letters to the Editor of the Eugene Register-Guard posing questions about the College operation. It is the policy of the College that any such letters will receive an answer. These answers are written directly to the individual posing the questions. To keep the staff informed the following two letters are reprinted.

Mrs. Mildred Detling
1944 Moss Street
Eugene, Oregon

Dear Mrs. Detling:

I am most appreciative of your interest in Lane Community College. May I refer specifically to your letter in the Eugene Register-Guard on the 2nd of August. As Chairman of the LCC Board, it would seem appropriate that I answer your question with regard to the President's salary. I would be most happy to meet with you to discuss this matter, or to furnish you with other information. I am sure Dr. Parnell, our College President, would also be happy to talk with you.

The first assumption in your letter is that people of the College District vote on the budget. This is not so. The voters only vote on the amount of money necessary from local property taxes to balance the budget. In the case of the Lane Community College budget this came to $490,000 out of a total general fund budget of $2,501,132 for the 1967-68 budget year. (Incidentally, this is lower than the 1966-67 tax levy.) Oregon local budget law places responsibility for developing the budget on the Budget Committee and for finally adopting the budget on the Board. The law also gives the Board latitude in making transfers within the budget as the year progresses. In the case of the President's salary we will have to make a transfer, but it will not involve an overall budget increase.

The salary of the President is negotiated separately from other staff salaries and was still under negotiation until our July 12, 1967, Board meeting. Quite frankly, we would like to be able to pay our President more than we offered him. We are the second largest community college in the State, yet our President's salary stands in fifth place. However, we endeavor to cut costs wherever possible and this is one place where a few dollars may be saved. Our President concurs with the Board in this philosophy.

The authorization given by the voters when approving the tax levy necessary to balance the budget means that the District may levy up to that amount ($490,000). It is possible--in fact it has happened in the past--that the Lane Community College Board may not levy the full amount authorized by the voters. As you can see, the Board has considerable legal latitude to adjust the budget within the confines of the local budget law. The dollar amounts shown in the budget document represent a projection that the budget law is clear to point out as "estimates." However, in no case may the total expenditure exceed that which is indicated in the total budget.

Again, I appreciate your interest and concern. You should know we are always available for questions and clarifications as to action taken by the Board. We want to be a responsible and efficient public body in every respect. In the case you mentioned we did not set the President's 1967-68 salary at an earlier date, since the matter was in the negotiation stage.

Sincerely yours,

Dean Webb
Board Chairman

Mrs. Jean Frachiseur
1058 Cottonwood Ave.
Eugene, Oregon

Dear Mrs. Frachiseur:

Re: Your Letter-to-the-Editor, Eugene Register Guard, August 11, 1967

You should know of our appreciation for your interest in the operation of Lane Community College. I will try to provide you with answers to your many fine questions. Enclosed is a copy of a letter our Board has drafted in reply to a letter on the President's salary. This seems like the best way to answer this question.

In answer to your other questions:

1. This past year we enrolled 9,844 individuals in classes that can be broken down in the following categories:

	Fill-time Equivalent Students	Unduplicated Headcount Enrollment
Occupational Training	1,275	7,862
College Transfer	1,033	1,389
Adult Basic Education	48	228
Special Welfare Classes	25	115
Other Scattered Categories	48	250
	2,429	9,844

2. I have enclosed a college catalog and a few brochures which describe the many varied programs. Briefly, our goal is to provide a "higher" education for the common man. LCC, as an open door community college, has been developed primarily to serve those for whom no other post-high school educational opportunities are readily "within reach", either geographically, financially, vocationally, or academically. In fulfilling this function, the College endeavors to provide quality opportunities to meet highly diversified needs maintaining at least one open door for most of the citizens. Our student and counselors indicate that the College is fulfilling this goal to a marked degree.

3. As President, I have one person you can define as an administrative assistant. However, he wears several other hats with primary responsibility for College-Community relations. He holds the Masters Degree and has had many years experience in education. The Board has set his annual salary at $13,200 (his salary last year was $12,700, this is slightly less than a 4% raise). Of course, there are other administrators in the College with specific responsibilities for specific areas of the College. In a recent survey here I found that the LCC personnel with administrative assignments are currently devoting an average of 60 hours per week on the job.

4. Your question on intercollegiate athletics is an academic one at the moment for the Board currently has a policy of no intercollegiate athletics. The Mt. Hood Board was discussing with the Lane Board the possibility of changing this policy. Also, this is one of the most urgent desires of the student body officers of LCC. It does not appear that the Lane Board will be discussing this matter again very soon.

You have asked so many pertinent and important questions that I have asked the Eugene Register-Guard to develop a feature story (perhaps progress report) on LCC to be ran in their Sunday Supplement. Any help you can give us urging the Guard to do this will be appreciated. (Perhaps a phone call to Mr. Dan Sellard of the Guard staff would be helpful.)

Feel free to give me a call (342-4931, Extension 32) or better yet perhaps you would like to discuss these matters with me personally. At any rate, I hope this note has been helpful.

Cordially,

Dale Parnell
President

BEST BARGAIN IN TOWN

A reduced registration fee of $4 per credit hour has been announced for area adults who wish to audit regular LCC college classes fall term. The fee schedule was introduced for adults wishing to take interest courses without pressure of grades and tests; or for adults who would like a trial run of warm-up classes before returning to college for credit programs.

Credit by examination will be given for a small fee upon request by a student.

Registration for adult audit classes will begin Friday, September 1, at 8:00am on the Eugene Campus. No transcript, physical examination, or registration deposit fee is required.

READY FOR THE RUSH

Fall term textbooks are now in stock at all three campus bookstores Ada Zinser, bookstore manager, said today. Supplies will be arriving daily from now until the start of fall classes. LCC sweatshirts in all sizes will be here the first of the week.

---

NEW HOME, ANYONE?

Lane Community College has been asked to compile information regarding the number of staff members interested in a residential community near the new campus site. To this end a questionnaire has been developed which will be distributed to staff members and students to determine whether or not a demand for such housing exists.

Plans are to send out questionnaires to staff members within the next two weeks.

OPEN DOOR THROUGH A PEEK HOLE

Lane County Fair goers can "take a peek at LCC" through portholes cut in the end of the LCC Fair booth at various heights tailored for future graduates of classes 1967 through 1980. The keyhole views reveal a new tract rack stocked with colorful brochures; oversize photos of future and present campuses; architects renderings; and real, live staff members, students, and board members primed to answer questions about the college.

Congratulations to parents of the Class of '85:

To Robert and Norma Bernhardt, and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gubrud, with baby daughters.

To Sydney and Mabel Armstrong, and Chuck and Marilyn Haugan, with sons.

All four little ones have been born during summer vacation.

SET TO GO!

Robert Marshall, MDTA Director, announces two new classes will start soon: Home Health Aids will begin September 6, with 20 students; and a Clerk-Steno class will begin September 25, with 18 students.

Mr. Marshall reports that all 36 members of last year's Home Health Aid classes are now working through the Home Health Service Agency in Eugene.

The biggest problem in the world could have been solved when it was small.

Lack of Public Interest in Government Cited by Parnell

Lane Community College President Dr. Dale Parnell expressed concern over the public's lack of confidence in local government and rapped Oregon's constitutional 6 percent limitation method of financing public agencies during a talk Wednesday noon before the Springfield Rotary club.

Parnell told the Rotarians that he was worried that people were losing faith in local government, and he laid part of the blame on the public school system.

"We teach kids all about Eskimos but nothing about planning commissions," Parnell said, pointing out a general lack of stress on local governmental processes by public schools.

"If local government isn't strong," Parnell said, "we're in trouble."

The LCC head said local governments were, from his experiences, "pretty darn efficient." He said he hadn't seen any evidence of waste in local government that could be termed extravagant.

Speaking on tax structures, Parnell called the 6 percent limitation "the most confusing issue we have" in government. He said "it is a crime for public agencies to go to the people each year, asking that they vote on something they don't understand."

"Most people vote on blind faith," Parnell said, pointing out that very few understand the meaning of the 6 percent limitation.

Parnell gave Rotarians a rundown of the programs and goals at LCC, pointing to the college's primary goal of keeping higher education within the reach of all, both financially and academically.

He called LCC "a rather dynamic organization, trying to be responsive to the needs of the local community."

Parnell listed five major program goals of the college, including providing quality occupational education, college transfer opportunities, a good development program, good guidance and counselling programs, and a good adult education program.

He said total enrollment during the 1966-67 fiscal year for all types of programs was 9,844, which included 7,862 enrolled in vocational - technical studies, 1,389 in liberal arts, 228 adult basic education students, 115 in special classes under the welfare department and 250 students in miscellaneous categories.

Parnell said this was the equivalent of 2,429 year-around full-time students; "much higher than our early expectations."

He said the new LCC campus, under construction off 30th Avenue south of Springfield, would be a great asset to the continued progress of the institution. He noted that the college last spring term held classes in 41 different locations throughout Springfield and Eugene, creating numerous administrative problems.

Parnell lauded the LCC board of directors, who, he said have spent the equivalent of 60 days in meetings, without pay, since the college was formed.

"We're headed to be one of the outstanding community colleges in the nation," Parnell said, "and you don't do that without an outstanding staff and board."

REMINDER: The Round-Up needs individual pictures of all staff members as soon as possible. Please check with Bert Dotson's office to see if we already have a picture of you; or send us one. Thanks.

Dear Dr. Parnell:

A thousand thank you's to Lane Community College for its open door policy which made a world of difference for my daughter Virginia.

I am especially grateful to Kenneth Hills and Ralph Burns of your counseling staff and to Mrs. Stopa of the Study Skills Center. They played a very important part in restoring Virginia's ego and convinced her that she could learn.

Please accept my heartfelt thanks.

BOND COMMITTEE FORMED

Mr. Dave Williams, Asst. Manager, Main Branch, 1st National Bank, has been named Chairman of a newly formed Citizens Committee for Lane Community College.

Purpose of the Committee is to help prepare and distribute information in support of passage of the $9.9 million bond issue September 20. The Committee is currently conducting a campaign to secure at least 1000 endorsement signatures to be used in future publicity.

MODEL READY

The first public showing of the model of the new Lane Community College Campus is being held at the LCC booth at the Lane County Fair this week. The model, prepared by Campus architects Balzhiser, Seder, & Rhodes is a 6 foot square, three-dimensional layout showing buildings, parking sites, and other features of the new Campus. First-phase buildings are scheduled for occupancy in the fall of 1968.

Members of the LCC Board of Education have joined LCC administrators and counselors in manning the Fair booth from 10:00 am to 11:00 pm August 23-27 to distribute informational materials and to answer questions about the College.

MORE GROWTH

Two new mobile classrooms have been erected on the LCC Eugene Campus this summer adjacent to the existing mobile classrooms and will be ready for use when Fall Term begins September 26. The four classrooms provided by the new buildings will be used for drafting, math, physics, and Adult Education classes.

LOANS AND SCHOLARSHIPS

Federal grants totaling $40,366 have been received by Lane Community College, it was announced today by Frances Howard, LCC Financial Aids Counselor. $16,986 in National Defense Education Act funds will be used for student loans; $23,380 received under the Economic Opportunity Act will make matching grants available to these students.

Approximately 75 LCC students are expected to benefit from the combination loan-grant funds, in amounts ranging from $400 to $1000. The loan portion may be repaid over a ten-year period after the student has finished school. The money, credited to student accounts, may be used to cover tuition, books, and supplies; with some apportionment for transportation. The awards will be based on need and individual promise of success in a college program.

Any student wishing financial aid while attending LCC is urged to contact Mrs. Howard on the Eugene Campus, 200 North Monroe. Mrs. Howard has pointed out that several other kinds of scholarships are available, as well as Work-Study Programs, to enable students to finance their educations.

SECRETARIES MEET

Lane Community College is hosting a meeting of educational secretaries on Tuesday, August 30, to explain the September 20 Bond Issue Election. Office personnel of all schools in the LCC District have been invited, and husbands and families are welcome.

Dr. Parnell, College President, would appreciate the help of all LCC office clerks and secretaries in serving as hostesses for guests from other schools. The meeting will be at 7:30 pm in KRVM Studio, Eugene Campus.

PRE-REGISTRATION

Classes are filling rapidly as registration continues at LCC, Dean of Students I. S. Hakanson reported this week. Latest figures indicate about 1000 completed registrations, with 36 sections already filled. Unfilled sections are mostly in the evening and late afternoon classes; however, some openings exist in all curriculum areas.

An enrollment of 2000 students is predicted for the 1966-67 school year. Again, applicants are urged to register as soon as possible. Second-year students are reminded they must complete registration soon to assure places in related classes. Additional sections may be added as soon as registration is completed to a point where enrollment in given areas shows a need for more classes.

EXECUTIVE BOARD MEETS

Mr. G. R. Bloomquist, Assistant Dean of Instruction, and Mel Gaskill, Chairman of the LCC Mechanics Division, attended an Executive Board Meeting of the Oregon Vocational Association in Salem Thursday, August 18. This is the first planning session for the coming year.

Mr. Bloomquist is President of OVA; Mr. Gaskill is a Board member.

BRONZE SEAL

The Lane Community College seal, designed by former LCC student David Spriggs of Cottage Grove, was received in time to be shown at the Lane County Fair this week. The 65 pound seal is cast in bronze from a pattern made by David and his father, Harold A. Spriggs. Actual casting of the work was directed by David and his father; polishing was donated by the owner of Kimwood's Service Station, in Cottage Grove. The seal will be permanently installed on the new Campus.

STAFF HANDBOOK

Revision of the Staff Policies Handbook has been completed and copies of the new manual will be in the mail this week. The book is being sent to all full-time staff members of LCC.

BASIC EDUCATION

MDTA Director Robert Marshall reports LCC Basic Education will end September 2, with next year's program beginning September 28. Classes are held daily for 6 hours at the Labor Temple, 135 E. 6th, Eugene. Instructors in the program are Cora Pirtle, Gladys Belden, and Aldin Whittle.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The first Student Council meeting of the 1966-67 school year will be held Tuesday, September 20, 2:00 pm, in KRVM Studio. Student Council members have been working the past few weeks on revision of the Student Handbook which is to be given free to all full-time students this year.

LCC BUS

At their August 18 meeting the LCC Board of Education authorized the purchase of a 29 passenger bus for use on special field trips and limited inter-campus transportation. Cost of the bus, purchased from the Federal Surplus Property Section, was $450.

SEPTEMBER SEMINARS

"Something for everyone" could be the theme of the September Seminars--staff in-service meetings-- planned to begin the morning of September 11 on the Eugene Campus. Group meetings will take up most of the first morning. The afternoon is reserved for keynote speaker Eric Hoffer, who will speak on "The Explosiveness of Change." Mr. Hoffer will also present a public lecture at 8:00 in the evening in Harris Hall, "Leisure of the Masses."

Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning will be given to the Articulation Meeting in Corvallis. An all-staff meeting will be held Thursday morning.

Staff Association meetings are set for Friday morning, September 15, and for Tuesday afternoon, September 19. Small group meetings and individual work will take up the remainder of the time.

The ten days of activity will be topped off by the staff family picnic, planned for Thursday, September 21, at 4:00 pm in Armitage park.

Division Chairmen report for Fall Term on September 5; other nine-month staff members report on September 11. See the enclosed excerpt from the Staff Handbook.

Staff members, Board members, and students who worked in the Lane County Fair booth should be complimented on the attractive and informative exhibit. Having people on hand to answer questions about the college added greatly to the booth's effectiveness.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Thanks to the Division Chairmen who turned in rough copy for information brochures for various programs offered by the college. The brochures are being developed and printed as time and printing schedules allow. Ten new brochures have been printed during the past few weeks.

A PLACE FOR EVERYONE

William Cox, Dean of Administration, reports LCC has leased a private home adjacent to the Springfield Campus for use as additional faculty office space for the coming year. Minor remodeling will be done and some faculty offices will be installed in the new quarters before classes begin.

Plans are being developed to move the Bethel Library to a trailer on the campus grounds and use the present library space for faculty offices. Mr. Cox would like to emphasize that each faculty member will be provided with his own work space.

TO EACH HIS OWN

LCC counselors have been assigned to specific area high schools as liason personnel between the schools and the college for the coming year Dean I. S. Hakanson announced recently. The assignments have been made to facilitate communications between secondary school personnel and college officials Mr. Hakanson said. Counselors have also been assigned to serve in the same capacity with designated college divisions. Counselors plan to attend high school faculty meetings and college division meetings as assigned; and will be available whenever needed to explain the programs and policies of the college.

Counselors and their assignments are as follows:

Wilbert Bailey--Triangle Lake, Churchill, Industrial Technology Division; John Berhham--Lowell, Pleasant Hill, Adult Education Division; Ralph Burns, North Eugene, Thurston, Mechanics division; John Carter--Oakridge, Springfield, Math Division; Robert Cook--Creswell, Cottage Grove, Health and PE Division; Pauline Dixon--Junction City, Monroe, Harrisburg, Language Arts Division; Betty Ekstrom--Willamette, Elmira, Fine and Applied Arts Division; Dallas Haverland--Siuslaw, Mapleton, St. Francis, Science Division; Ken Hills--Sheldon, all area schools, Social Science Division; Frances Howard--Mohawk, McKenzie, Nursing and Home Ec Division; Irene Parent--South Eugene, Crow, Business Division; and William Wright--all high schools, Electronics Division.

RASH PROJECTS

A check with Darwin MacCarroll on recent projects of his clean-up crew revealed that the entire crew has suffered from poison oak acquired while spraying 2000 gallons of poison oak spray on undergrowth at the new campus site.

The crew members fell prey to further injury from bee stings suffered while chopping brush. All the work-study students and their leader have recovered and are back on deck, itching for new projects to tackle.

BOARD MEETING

Next meeting of the LCC Board of Education will be September 6, 7:30 pm, in the Board Room on the Eugene Campus.

Among other items of business to be considered will be awarding the bid for the Library-Learning Resource Center. This is the final building to be contracted in Phase I construction.
