News briefs

LCC and Blue Mountain Community College will be the first recipients of scholarships in the amount of $200 awarded by the Oregon Broadcasters Association. The awards will be given to first-year students who will be returning next fall to complete the program.

Students from two other community colleges will be honored next year.

The Campus Planning Committee has been working on a student announcement board for publicizing campus activities.

The materials to build the board, which will stand 10 ft. high and have eight sides in the shape of an octagon figure, have been donated to the College by the Emerald Empire Kawanis Club. The Club donated the materials as a means of promoting the LCC "Circle K Club," which is a form of Kawanis, designed for students. The Circle 'K' met for an organizational meeting yesterday at 11:30 a.m. in the Board Room.

The Ways and Means Committee of the Oregon Legislature was on campus Sunday to tour the facilities and meet with Board members and administrators.

The 14 committee members with their staff, about 22 in all, attended a luncheon on campus. Later they broke up into three smaller groups and went on a tour.

President BOB HAMILL spoke to the group on "what had aspired at LCC thus far and what the future holds." He touched briefly on future plans for expansion of programs, departments, etc. Cabinet members were available to answer questions for the committee.

The LCC visit completed the second of a series of three-day tours of Oregon's institutions of higher learning.

Drafting prof back

Drafting Prof BOB ALLEN is back this term after recuperating from a broken hip. Bob fell on an icy patio and injured his hip. He missed almost all of Winter Term.

He is still in a wheel chair and using crutches, but is glad to be back with a full load of classes. He has been nicknamed "professor Ironsides" by his students and colleagues.

Conference scheduled

A Health Occupations Conference, co-sponsored by the Oregon Health Occupations Association and the Oregon Board of Education will be held on campus April 11 and 12. The purpose of the conference will be to promote new concepts in health occupations education. There will be speakers from Linn-Benton, Mt. Hood and Clackamas Community Colleges to discuss programs of education and there will also be speakers on health planning and implementation.

Paradental Chairman JOHN DICKSON is on the planning committee for the conference.

Board advised to start building

"Get ready to start building" was the advice given Board of Education members Wednesday night by facilities planner MARSTON MORGAN. He said his study of campus needs suggests that a new classroom building probably should be started this fall.

Labs for Performing Arts and Fine and Applied Arts also appear to be a pressing need, he said.

Though still in a formative stage, Morgan's utilization study indicates that LCC classroom use is higher than average and available space per student is below average. He said he will have more firm data for the Board by May 21.

In other business, the Board:

*Was advised that the Winter Term student FTE per full-time faculty member is 21.17, slightly higher than the usual 1-20. Research Director JIM SNOW said the average class size is 23.7; the largest class (chemistry) has 65; the smallest (data processing projects) has 3.

Prof. DICK NEWELL, chairman of the Faculty Work-Load Committee, said a work-load system will be presented to the Board later, but that it will be too late for possible implementation next budget year.

*Approved 16 new courses: Key punch operation I and II, Elementary Sculpture, Introduction to Food Service Work, Child Care and Guidance, Fashion Fundamentals, Food for Weight Control, Food Preparation, Fundamentals of Broadcasting, Introduction to Probability & Statistics, Introduction to Linear Algebra, Performance

The May issue of PACE Magazine is on the newstands, and the campus bookstore will have 200 issues for sale Monday, April 7. This is the issue which has the story of Eric Hoffer and Lane Community College.

The magazines will sell at the regular newstand price of 50¢.

JB box office opens Monday

Tickets will go on sale Monday, (April 7) for "JB," according to Performing Arts Director ED RAGOZZINO. Tickets for the May 1,2,3,7,8,9, and 10 performances will sell for $1.50 each. The play will run in the Forum Theatre, with no seats reserved.

The JB box office is located at the information desk in the Administration Building. Tickets may be purchased by phone, 747-4501, ext. 309; by mailing a check to LCC, att. JB box office.

Box office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday-Friday. Each of the performances will begin at 8 p.m.

Studies, Music Theory II, Keyboard Harmony, Theater Principles, Production Workshop.

*Approved establishment of four new positions: director of development, associate dean of instruction (probably not to be funded in 1969-70, director of instructional materials production, and business manager. The controller and superintendent of college facilities would report to the latter.

*Approved grants equivalent to tuition waivers for 20 poverty-level students to attend LCC next year. Cost will be $3,300.

*Postponed awarding of a contract to install a central kitchen in The Center Building. The kitchen was pulled out of the building contract a year ago for budgetary reasons. The builders have offered to put it back at a cost which is about $85,000 more than their previous offer. The Administration will look into the higher cost.

*Bought a $6,900 wrecked Cessna 210 airplane for A & P students to work on. Mechanics Chairman MEL GASKILL said the engine and radio navigation systems are worth more than the asking price. The plane and $11,256 worth of additional vocational equipment (yet to be bid on) will be financed by a $18,156 federal grant.

*Bought closed circuit tv equipment for $16,663; Industrial Technology equipment for $2,060; and physics equipment for $17,094.

*Paid operating claims of $72,190 and construction claims of $327,445.

Work-load formula submitted for ok

The Faculty Work-Load Committee presented a special work-load formula on which a weighted system for assigning teacher work loads could be based, at a special meeting of the faculty section, Tuesday morning.

The committee used a formula taken from Bellevue College in Washington as a skeleton, and from this devised a formula which in Chairman DICK NEWELL's words "is a fair and workable formula to use as a basis for assigning work loads for each of the instructional departments."

Each of the department chairmen submitted a unit figure which they thought to be a fair average for their instructors. For example, if the suggested number of work-load units for mechanics instructors is 50, this means that each mechanics prof should be able to handle somewhere around 50 units per term. Maybe one instructor will have 57 one term and another only 46. The following term the two should switch, and the first one get a lighter load and the second a heavier, to balance.

Units or points are assigned for class room teaching, labs, committee appointments, large classes etc. A certain number of units is assigned for the various assignments.

According to Dick, "the unique aspect is the minus factor. If we give an instructor 1 unit for an extra large class, then if there are only 11 students in a class, that instructor gets a minus 1 unit for the same reason, it takes less preparation, etc."

The formula cannot work unless there is an on-going re-evaluation of the factors because there are many changing factors which will affect the system.

The faculty listened to the proposed ideas and revised the formula, which included the re wording of a few terms and definitions.

The committee will now make the changes and revisions recommended by the faculty and then present the formula to the administration and Board for Approval as the official Work-Load formula for LCC.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to all of the LCC staff members who were concerned about my health during my recent absence. I enjoyed the calls and cards, and it is good to be back.

Sincerely,
Bob Allen

'Round the campus

Dean of Instruction LEW CASE received a letter from the executive director of Durham Community House of the University of North Carolina expressing their appreciation for the visit by LCC Sociology Prof JOHN KLOBAS during a communications conference back there in late February.

John lead the four-day conference for the University's staff and students on communications and social interaction. The letter commended LCC for its flexibility and generous giving of a professor to aid in their effort to gain better communications.

Three Guatemalan education officials will be on campus Monday to visit the vocational areas and tour the campus. The group, including Daniel Contreras, dean of Humanities at the University of San Carlos, and two planning officials from the Ministry of Education in Guatemala, are visiting both the U of O and LCC.

Dr. Martin, from the international office at the University will attend a luncheon on campus with Dr. HAMILL and the visitors.

Bookstore Manager ADA ZINSER reports that the Bookstore has stocked more than 700 titles of required and recommended textbooks since July 1. In total figures, the store has handled about 60,000 volumes during the year.

Staff members are invited to come in and browse. A 10 per cent discount is extended on all books, and a 20 per cent discount is allowed for all supplies purchased by staff members.

About 15 barrels, with a 55-gallon capacity, are being sought by the College Services Department to use for trash barrels in the student parking lots. Anyone who knows where the College can get barrels of this size, please contact WALT VAN ORDEN, plant supervisor.

Art students will decorate the barrels, in whatever design they wish, according to Dean COX.

A reminder to all staff members, the opportunity for you to have your teeth cleaned and scaled for a nominal $4 fee. The dental hygiene students have open clinic on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. If you would like to have your teeth cleaned, call SANDY HOFFMAN, secretary for Paradental and leave your name and extension number.

The Library-learning resource center could use "untold quantities" of intra-campus manilla routing envelopes. Anyone who has extras, please sent them to the LRC in the Apprenticeship Building.

The stairs in the Administration Building were replaced during the Spring vacation. According to Dean COX the new stairs are similar to the previous set, with the exception of a built-in modesty panel. The landing deck in the center is the same, with new steps set in the old casing.

names in the news

BUCK BAILEY, placement counselor, returned today from Las Vegas where he attended the annual conference of the American Personnel and Guidance Association.

Associate Dean GERRY RASMUSSEN reports that former professor of Political science BERNICE FLEMMING sends her greetings to staff members, via a recent letter. Bernice is in St. Paul, Minnesota where her husband is president of Macalester College.

Bernice must have thought the community college life enlightening, as she is pursuing a similar position back there.

Mechanics Chairman MEL GASKILL attended the sunrise wedding of his youngest daughter Linda to Mr. John Keating. The couple were married March 20.

GLADYS BELDEN, home economics chairman, attended a workshop at the University of Oklahoma recently to meet with other home economists who have joined the rehabilitation team.

The Eugene Junior Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Music Prof NATHAN CAMMACK, is holding weekly rehearsals in the basement of the LRC Building on Monday evenings.

Placement Director BUCK BAILEY spoke at the Educational Program of the Oregon Dental Assistants Association last Tuesday, at the Portland Hilton. The program was a portion of the annual three-day meeting of the Association.

Dental Assistant Professor TERRY STRONG is the president-elect of the Association for this year.

ROUNDUP

Career Institute May 1 & 2

LCC will hold its first Careers Institute on campus May 1 and 2. Placement Director BUCK BAILEY reports that the 12 sessions, three each morning and three each afternoon, will be held on the fourth floor of the LRC Building. The event is co-sponsored by the Eugene Rotary Club. About six to eight thousand area high school students are expected to attend the meetings.

Representatives from business and labor organizations in the area will be present to talk with students and discuss the various aspects of jobs and business, according to students' interests.

Art model on display

A piece of sculpture is presently on display on the court-terrace outside the South entrance of the Administration Building on the second level.

The work was created by Oregon sculptor and LCC Fine Arts Prof HAROLD HOY. The yellow mass has been offered to the College as a donation to arouse interest and questions concerning fine art. The Campus Planning Committee is considering the possibilities of finishing the plywood form in a more permanent steel plate, to allow students to touch, handle, and walk on; and as a general protection for the surface.

The piece is open for use as a teaching aid for classes and instructors who would like to have their students listen to an explanation of sculptor and how to interpret the art, can contact Facilities Planner MARSTON MORGAN, Fine Arts Prof HAROLD HOY or Dean of College Services BILL COX.

The model will be on display through April 24.

LOST AND FOUND

The LCC lost and found department at the switchboard area in the Administration Building is collecting many miscellaneous items, too many.

Books, rings, wallets, make-up cases, keys of all kinds, jewelry, glasses and other things have been turned in and remain unclaimed. If you have lost any of the above items, please check with the girls at the switchboard or Information desk. If the items are not claimed soon, they will be donated to a charitable organization.

LCC total budget may drop this year

LCC's total budget would drop from $12.9 million this year to $12.4 million next year under a proposed plan placed before the College Budget Committee Wednesday night.

But the general fund, the operating expense money, would climb from $3.5 million to $4.7 million. The new money would go toward salary increases and hiring of new people (about a half million dollars), maintenance of plant, strengthening of existing programs and starting new programs. A breakdown of how the new money would be spent will be given the Budget Committee on May 7.

Revenues for the proposed budget would come from state and federal sources, tuition and the $1.5 million property tax base. No election would be necessary.

Acting President ROBERT HAMILL, in his budget message, predicted a 20 percent increase in students next year to 4,332 FTE. He recommended adding 31.5 FTE instructors (raising the total to 227.9 in credit programs), and a number of classified personnel.

Social Security and Retirement System rates are up 25 percent, he said. Cost of utilities for operating the campus is expected to grow 100 percent.

The Roundup will try to present a resume of the proposed budget in greater depth in subsequent issues, as more information becomes available.

The Budget Committee elected Swisshome lumberman JOHN BREWER as chairman, Cottage Grove corporation executive CARLTON WOODARD as vice chairman, and Eugene radio-tv personality MARY KRENK as secretary.

RELATIONS CONFAB HERE NEXT FRIDAY

The Oregon High School-College Relations Council will hold its quarterly meeting on campus April 25, on the fourth floor of the Center. Dean of Students BUD HAKANSON is on the executive committee of the council, which includes representatives from the community colleges of Oregon, the four-year institutions, state officials and others.

Dean asks for tuition hike

A recommendation has been made by Dean of Students BUD HAKANSON to raise tuition for out-of-state and foreign students to $330 a term. These students presently pay $200 a term.

The recommendations stems from the fact that LCC does not receive any state reimbursement for these students and the $330 figure, which is the same as State System schools charge, would pay the way for these students at Lane.

Dean Hakanson also recommends that "we limit the number of foreign students to one per cent of our projected FTE for the coming year." This would mean that LCC would have a total of not more than 42 foreign students which will require the extra services of one-third counselor for orientation processes this summer.

Although he has long been an advocate of low tuition Bud said of the situation, "in light of the projected monies available from State and local sources, it seems necessary to at least expect out-of-state and foreign students to pay their own way since we do not receive any reimbursement for them."

Ralph Schoenman to speak Tuesday

"The Nature of American Power" will be the topic of discussion during a Forum featuring Ralph Schoenman, personal secretary for Bertrand Russell, at 8 p.m. in Rm 301 of the Forum Building, Tuesday, April 22.

Schoenman, who is also a director of the Bertrand Russell Peace Foundation, is secretary General of the International War Crimes Tribunal. He has been embroiled in controversy and involved in head-on collision with authorities for many years.

Born in New York, he attended Princeton University where he received a B.A. in Philosophy. He waged a two-year fight with the United States Government before obtaining his passport in a Supreme Court decision in 1958. He completed his studies at the University of London, with a masters degree in Science.

Schoenman, with Bertrand Russell, founded the "Committee of 100" which organized mass civil disobedience demonstrations. He has been in numerous prisons for his activities and his missions have taken him to such countries as North Vietnam, China, Africa and the Congo.

The Russell IWCT (International War Crimes Tribunal) recently held four sessions on American war Crimes in Vietnam, meeting in London, Stockholm, Tokyo and Copenhagen.

Schoenman was instrumental in inaugurating the probe into the Kennedy assassination, and with Russell and Mark Lane developed the early critique of the Warren Report.

Continuing appoints given to 58 staffers

Fifty-eight faculty members were granted five-year continuing appointments by the Board of Education Wednesday night.

Awarded after three years of satisfactory teaching at LCC, the appointments are similar to what some other colleges call "tenure."

Those appointed: Business Department: Hugh Cowley, Millie Hartstrom, Edith Jones, Gary Rholl, Ruth Thygesen and Gordon Wehner.

Electronics Department: James Huntington, Darwin McCarroll and Ray Nott.

English/Foreign Language Department: Evan Alford, Paul Armstrong, John Howard, Sheila Juba, Karen Lansdowne and Antoinette Robinson.

Health and Physical Education Department: Delpha Daggett, Florence Goulding and Cecil Hodges.

Industrial Technology Department: Robert T. Allen, Carl Blood, O. Jed Merrill and John M. Phillips.

Mathematics Department: Leland Halberg, Hazel Smith, James Snow and Howard Zink.

Paradental Department: Muriel Peterson.

Mechanics Department: Don Dickinson, German C.M. Ellsworth, Melvin Gaskill, Daryl A. Jossart, Carl L. Lemke, George Luck, Robert D. Maxwell, Paul C. Patrick, Herbert A. Pruett and Marvin Winger.

Science Department: Mabel Armstrong, Jack Scales, Glenn Heiserman, Victor Favier, Robert Boettcher, Floyd Weitzel, Richard Fraga, William Manley and John Jacobs.

Student Personnel: Wilbert Bailey, Ralph Burns, Pauline Dixon, Ellene Goldsmith, Frances Howard, Kenneth Hills, Irene Parent and William Wright.

Social Science Department: William Beals, Lloyd Klemke, Paul Malm and Ron Mitchell.

In other business, the Board:

* Reluctantly approved the expenditure of $231,587 for installation of a central kitchen in The Center cafeteria. The Board felt that the cost was far too high but that the College couldn't do without the kitchen. Waldo Hardie & Son will do the general contracting on a time-and-materials basis in an attempt to reduce the cost.

* Approved use of LCC buildings and tunnels as Civil Defense shelters. The Lane County Sheriff's Office reports that room for 6,680 people is available. Spare space in the tunnel will be used to store $21,000 worth of federal government food and medical supplies.

* Approved spending $2,156 for a dishwasher for "Ames' Alley," the temporary snack shack, and for installation of file drawers in the library checkout desk in The Center.

* Paid claims of $38,857, including $667 for excavating and paving the tennis courts and $2,381 for purchase of a tympani, bassoon and two pianos.

* Approved a policy allowing students to apply up to 16 hours of pass-no pass credits toward LCC associate degrees.

* Discussed, but delayed action until May 7 on a proposed policy to release information about students only with the students' permission. The dean of students' office reportedly is "bugged" constantly by bill collectors, etc., who are trying to track down students.

* Named BILL BRISTOW (who was absent) to represent the Board on the Central Lane Planning Council, subject to Bill's consent.

* Named four Board members as delegates to the OCCA convention at LCC on May 9-10. The four: Chairman AL BRAUER, Vice Chairman CLIFFORD MATSON, BILL BRISTOW and LYLE SWETLAND.

* Was advised that the county engineer will inspect the safety factor related to minor splitting in overhead trusses in the diesel portion of the Auto Technology Building. A report is expected by May 7. Charles Potterf, president of the Taxpayers Protective Association, had requested the safety inspection.

* Approved travel for DICK EYMANN, funding specialist, and LARRY MURRAY, director of Special Training Programs, to Sacramento April 21-25 for a Health, Education & Welfare regional workshop on vocational funding. Cost for both will be $400.

* Hired four teachers and granted a leave of absence to PETER SIMPSON, history, to complete his doctoral dissertation at the University of Oregon in 1969-70. New teachers: ROBERT RADCLIFF, Health & P.E.; ANN NEWTON, Nursing; THEODORE ROMOSER, Language Arts; SUE TRAUTWEIN, Business.

BIRTHDAYS

Birthday Greetings to: DONALD DICKINSON, mechanics prof and MARVIN JAEGER, history prof, 3; GEORGE MAST, mechanics prof, 5; MARIE DEMING, dental prof, 7; MEL GASKILL, mechanics chairman, 9; DARWIN MCCARROLL, electronics prof, 10; HOWARD BIRD, director of developmental education and acquisitions librarian, 11; BILL MANLEY, science prof and SUE MARSHALL, nursing prof, 13; DICK NEWELL, health prof and FRED SACKETT, physical therapist, 14; CHARLENE EDMUNDS, secretary to BERT DOTSON, 15; DONALD GREENLUND, mechanics prof, DELORIS HERMAN, secretary to WALT VAN ORDEN and VERA TONNING, cashier, 16; and JOHN JACOBS, science chairman, 18.

News briefs

The President's Cabinet has approved the recommendation of allowing vacation time to be substituted for sick leave if the staff member requesting it has already used up his allotted amount of sick leave.

There has been some discussion on this subject as to whether this was the correct procedure to follow or if time lost over the allotted sick leave, should be deducted from the staff member's monthly pay.

Spring Term enrollment at LCC was approximately 3,708 as of April 9. This includes the headcount figure for the credit programs as well as MDTA. The same figure for these programs for Spring Term last year was 3,179.

April 30, 1969 is the closing date for applications for the position of Business Manager, which was created by a Board decision April 2. The new man will be responsible directly to the College president, and will supervise five positions in the College Services area including: the superintendent of college facilities, controller, and three other department directors.

Salary for the position will range between $17,000 - $18,500 for the 12-month year.

The Bookstore reports the arrival of a second shipment of PACE Magazines. Manager ADA ZINSER says, "we received 50 more magazines and we will sell them at 50¢ each."

The Magazine carries a story on Lane Community College--the instant college.

Classified request membership in OCCA

The classified section of the Staff Association at Lane have requested that the LCC Staff Association, as a whole, make a formal request to the Oregon Community College Association (OCCA) at the May 9 and 10 meeting here, to be included in the membership of the OCCA.

The majority of the classified section feel that the section will benefit from this membership in several areas, including the OCCA insurance program and other group business transactions.

The classified employees of community colleges in Oregon have not previously been represented in the organization.

Classes cancelled

Classes will be cancelled Friday, May 9, due to the OCCA Convention on campus. It will be a regular work day however, for all staff members.

The Convention will run May 9, 10 and 11.

LCC Proposes One-Third Budget Boost

A 1969-70 budget proposal that asks a one-third increase in the current year's $3.5-million operating budget—but a $546,000 reduction in overall spending—was submitted to the Lane Community College Budget Committee Wednesday night.

Acting LCC President Robert Hamill delivered the proposed budget with an accompanying budget message to the committee at its organizational meeting.

The committee—made up of the seven elected board members and seven lay citizens appointed by the board—discussed but took no action on the proposed budget Wednesday night.

Hamill's budget proposes total spending next year of $12.4 million, compared to more than $12.9 million for the current, 1968-69 school year.

The reduction is a result of the completion of the college's new $16.6-million first-stage campus, which was opened last fall. More new construction is planned next year, but on a smaller scale and primarily with state and federal—rather than local—funds.

Despite the overall reduction in spending, however, the college would still need to increase the LCC property tax levy in order to balance the proposed budget.

Based on an approximate 6 per cent increase in the college district's property valuation next year, Hamill estimated that the proposed new budget would increase the total LCC property tax levy by about 18 cents per $1,000 of true cash value, from the current $1.41 to about $1.59.

For the owner of a $15,000 home, that would mean an extra $2.70 in local property taxes or a total tax of $23.85 for LCC purposes for the 1969-70 school year.

Future meetings of the budget committee are set for May 7 and 21, with a final public hearing scheduled for June 4. Plans are for the board to formally adopt a 1969-70 budget at its June 18 meeting.

LCC Budget

By LLOYD PASEMAN
Of the Register-Guard

The 1969-70 budget proposal presented to the Lane Community College Budget Committee Wednesday night might best be described as a "see-saw" budget.

The operating portion of the budget is up over last year. But the construction portion—and thus, the total budget—is down.

And, although total spending is down, the amount of local property taxes that would be needed to balance the proposed budget is up.

To further complicate matters some portions of the budget have been rearranged, making exact comparisons with last year's spending difficult, if not impossible.

For example, a 10th budget category — "auxiliary services fund," meaning the food services program and the college bookstore — has been added, totaling more than $650,000.

And some new funds, such as "business affairs and plant operation" and "development," have been taken out of prior year's sub-categories and made sub-categories of their own.

The proposed budget does not, however, defy analysis.

It's clear, for example, that the operation of the college is going to be bigger next year. Included in the proposal presented Wednesday night is an operating budget of $4.7 million, compared to a budget of $3.5 million for the current school year.

Most of the increase in the operating portion of the budget will go for salaries, but a sizeable chunk will be used for more "materials and services."

In the instruction portion of the operating budget, for example, it is proposed that this year's $1.87 million be increased to $2.54 million next year. Of the $667,000 difference, some $550,000 would go for salary increases and new staff.

Thirty-one new full-time teachers are proposed for addition to the staff next year — to bring it to a total of 194—for an anticipated 20 per cent increase in enrollment. A number of new civil service staff positions are included, among them 14 new custodians to help care for the college's growing campus.

Plans for a second-stage campus are still being drafted, but some funds are included in the proposed 1969-70 budget to begin construction of additional buildings next year.

Some $3.8 million in state construction funds is expected to be received, compared to about $1 million received in 1968-69.

The most dramatic change in any category — and the one responsible for the overall decrease in the total budget — is in the bond construction fund. This is the fund that contains the money received from the sale of bonds approved by the college district's voters.

The college last year sold the last of its $9.9 million in construction bonds, and no new bond election has been proposed. Consequently, last year's fund of $5.3 million will drop to $703,000 next year.

Citizens of the district who may not choose to wade through the college's budget document this year can ease their consciences, however. It seemed clear from Wednesday night's meeting that there will probably be no budget election for LCC this spring.

That's because the total property tax levy proposed for 1969-70—$2.66 million, up more than $437,000 from the current year—includes $1.5 million within the college's tax base approved by voters last May, and $1.16 million in taxes for construction that were also previously approved by district voters.

A 'See-Saw'

Candidates

The number of candidates for Lane Community College president was narrowed to four Wednesday night.

The members of the LCC board of directors made the final selection during a closed session following an organizational meeting of the LCC budget committee.

The four finalists will be brought to Eugene over the next 10 days to be personally interviewed by the board, after which the board will begin deliberations on a selection.

All of the candidates' names are being kept secret. Board Chairman Dr. Albert Brauer of Florence said after Wednesday night's closed meeting, however, that all four of the finalists are from out of state.

That would rule out Acting President Robert Hamill of Eugene, former director of institutional research who was appointed to replace Dale Parnell after Parnell was named State Superintendent of Public Instruction last May. Parnell was elected to the post at the November general election.

Hamill was generally believed to be a serious contender for the LCC post and apparently — because Wednesday's statement was made so late in the presidential "search" process — he was among the semi-finalists when the board narrowed its choice to 11 men on March 26.

The April issue of McCall's Magazine contains a verse written by LCC English Prof PAUL ARMSTRONG. Paul has had several of his prose works published in various magazines. This is the first time he has had something in the women's magazine.

Dean I.S. HAKANSON and his wife AUDREY represented Lane at the joint presidential inauguration for Reed College and Portland State University Wednesday, April 16 in Portland.

Dr. Victor Rosenblum is the new president of Reed, and Gregory Wolfe is the new head of Portland State.

The ceremonies included a luncheon in the afternoon and a speaker that evening. George Wald of Harvard spoke at the evening ceremony on "The Tent in the Temple."

LCC Board Member WILLIAM BRISTOW was master of ceremonies for an invitational banquet in Eugene April 4, honoring 11 utilities employees from the Eugene-Springfield area who were advanced to journeyman ratings.

Mr. Bristow is chairman of the Eugene Trades Apprenticeship Committee.

CARROL deBROEKERT, former LCC Social Science chairman, is the editor of the "Oregon Community College," a new publication which is being sent monthly from the State Board of Education in Salem. The paper will carry news of all Oregon Community Colleges.

Dean BUD HAKANSON attended a four-day IBM Seminar April 8-11 in Seattle, Wash. The workshop included a study on IBM Management concepts.

Round the campus

A letter of appreciation from Don Ruecker the past commissioner of the Lane County Basketball Officials Association was received by President HAMILL last week. The Association used LCC's facilities for their meetings and co-sponsored an adult education basketball officiation class.

Presidents of community colleges across the nation will communicate with each other via amateur radio hookups on a periodic basis according to Electronics Chairman ROGER HOUGLUM. The program was initiated on March 27, with President BOB HAMILL participating in the hookup.

A new breakage-fee system for science students has been approved by Cabinet for the 1969-70 year. Students who take chemistry and lab courses will buy a breakage deposit card for supplies. If the student does not break or lose supplies he will be eligible for a refund. The cards will cost $6 per term.

Science Chairman JOHN JACOBS prepared a report which estimates that a loss of equipment (breakage) totaling $309.56 was reported for Fall and Winter Terms.

The cast-bronze College Seal will rest permanently on the channel beam just above the stairs leading from the Gonyea Garden area down to the restaurant area of the new Center Building. The Campus Planning Committee suggested this particular place and it was approved at the April 8 Cabinet meeting.

ROUNDUP

Spring Concert tonight

The LCC Concert Choir, under the direction of ROBERT NORMAN, music prof, will present its annual spring concert tonight in the Forum Theatre. The 8 p.m. concert will feature music from the fifteenth through the twentieth centuries.

Pam Rinehart, LCC student, will present several Folk Music selections, some of which she composed herself.

A special attraction this year will be "The New Lane Singers," a group of 13 LCC students who perform a variety of musical numbers. The concert is complimentary to the public.

'Round the campus

Dr. Keith Goldhammer, dean of the School of Education at Oregon State University will be a guest speaker at the May 20 Cabinet meeting. Dr. Goldhammer will speak on the development and resolutions of the students rights dispute at OSU. The discussion may have implications for the development of an LCC policy on human rights.

Tickets to the second presentation of the LCC Performing Arts Department are on sale at the "JB" Box office at the switchboard. Tickets for the 8 p.m. performances May 1, 2, 3, 7, 8, 9 and 10 are $1.50 each. The play will be showing in the new Forum Theatre.

Faculty Wives luncheon tomorrow

The Faculty Wives Association at LCC will hold its annual Spring Luncheon tomorrow (April 26) at the Captain's Table, 2855 Willamette St. in Eugene, beginning at 12 noon. Reservations to the luncheon are being given to Mrs. Ken Hills, 343-6225 or Mrs. Don Dickinson, 689-2490.

The luncheon will include the election of new officers for the coming year.

Bob Norman resigns

Robert Norman, Music prof, has resigned effective today. Bob has been on the staff since 1966. He resigned to become part-owner in a publication for horse lovers, "From the Stables." He will also serve as advertising manager.

"KMPS" now operating

LCC now has a "mock AM radio station" broadcasting on campus. As a part of the learn-by-experience teaching method being used in radio broadcasting, students are practicing the complete cycle of radio in class.

KMPS, located at 700 kilocycles on the radio dial, can be heard within a 300 ft. radius of the Electronics Building. The transmitter has been hooked to amplifiers in the student center by telephone lines to make it possible for students to reap the benefits of the new popular "rock" station.

Broadcasting students went through the motions of writing up a contract whereby they "purchased" the station for the student body at LCC from Electronics Prof TOM LICHTY for a cost of $50,000, thus establishing a corporation and overhead.

Students perform all of the duties of a regular broadcaster, salesman, and technician. They sell commercials to staff members in nearby offices and then write and produce the commercials for airing on the station.

The new station does not have an FCC approved license and for this reason can only broadcast on campus, not more than 300 ft.

Although there is no money involved and the station is not licensed, students on campus can tune-in at 700 Kilocycles and pick up LCC's KMPS. Student Manager for the station is MARSH JOHNSON, ASB president.

Student senate asks for fee

A student committee presented a proposal to the president's cabinet Tuesday morning which asks that a $2 per-term student body fee be paid by each student.

The committee stated that the present sources of student body income used to cover student activities are not keeping up with the expense of the activities. An ad hoc student-staff committee chaired by Institutional Research Director JIM SNOW will study the situation and report back to the cabinet.

Members of the committee include: Facilities Planner MARSTON MORGAN, Student Activities Coordinator JACK CARTER, ASB President MARSH JOHNSON, and students SANDY CURTIS and PAUL NOSBISCH.

The group met Tuesday afternoon and will continue the Tuesday meeting this afternoon.
