MONDAY
December 3, 1973

ENERGY CRISIS WEEK---Today begins energy crisis week in Oregon's public schools and apparently most school districts are planning to do something about it. So is LCC. Two democratic candidates for governor will make campus appearances Friday during LCC's one-day energy symposium. State senator Betty Roberts (D-Portland) and state treasurer Jim Redden will make separate appearances that day in a program that also includes a confrontation panel on the causes of the energy crisis and a special concert by the stage band. Redden will moderate the panel discussion that features representatives from power-related industries, consumer affairs, retail industry and the Citizens Energy Council. The panel is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. in the Forum. Sen Roberts is scheduled to speak at 2 p.m. in the Forum on "What We Can Do To Help" during the energy crisis.

GRANT INFO AVAILABLE---Program information and application forms for the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education are available now from Lisl Fenner. Deadline for preliminary proposals is Dec. 15 with final proposals made by invitation only.

HELP---If you have a copy of the Arthur Young report please return it to Carol Beckley.

ORDER NOW---LCC Christmas cards are now in the process of being printed. Call Jan John, ext. 340, with the amount you need.

INSURANCE REP---Archie Zarewski will be here tomorrow at 2 p.m.

THURSDAY

PERFORMING ARTS BUSY -- A major concert tonight by the symphonic band and two weekend performances of the Messiah by LCC choral groups and the Baroque orchestra will wind up a hectic week for the performing arts department. Gene Aitkin's symphonic band opens the new season with a concert called "Colors in Sound" at 8 p.m. today at Springfield High School. Some selections planned include "Son of a Gambolier" by Charles Ives; "Ritual Fire Dance" by Manuel de Falla; "An American in Paris" by George Gershwin; and "Stars and Stripes" by John Philip Sousa. The concert is free. The Messiah will be performed twice this weekend--tomorrow night in Florence at the Christian Church and Sunday at the First Methodist Church in Eugene. The Sunday performance begins at 2 p.m. If you're travelling to Florence, you can see Wayte Kirchner's chorus and chamber choir and Nathan Cammack's baroque orchestra at 7:30 p.m.

DEADLINE TODAY -- Faculty members surveyed by the LCC Employees Federation on potential bargaining issues should turn in the results today to Mike Rose or Dave Croft. A similar survey will be circulated soon among the non-teaching staff.

INSTRUCTIONAL COUNCIL -- On the agenda for today's instructional council are decision items about double numbering of two business courses and recommendations concerning courses in biology, energy, the environment, resource management, science and society and consumer problems. The meeting is at 1:30 p.m. in the Board Room.

FRIDAY

SYMPOSIUM TODAY -- A confrontation panel of energy experts, conservationists, businessmen and consumers will highlight today's observance of Energy Crisis Day in Oregon and LCC. The panel, moderated by state treasurer Jim Redden, will begin at 10 a.m. in the Forum. Afternoon activities include a concert by the stage band with "Some Hot Licks from LCC" at 1 p.m. and a 2 p.m. keynote address by state Sen. Betty Roberts on "What We Can Do To Help" during the power crunch. All activities are in the Forum and are free.

CLASSIC TONIGHT -- Feather River JC of Quincy, Calif., and Northwest Christian College kickoff the first annual Christmas Seal Classic tonight at seven in the main gym, followed by LCC vs. Treasurer Valley CC at 9 p.m. Tickets are $2 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for children under 12. All proceeds go to the Oregon Lung Assn. Tomorrow the losers of tonight's games will play at 7 p.m. while the winners of tonight's contests will go for the championship at 9 p.m.

DEADLINE MONDAY -- Monday is the final day you can submit idea papers for the $3,000 in released funds made available by the trustees of the college development fund. All papers should be given to Lyle Swetland by the end of the working day. ..

SURVEY OUT -- A survey to determine potential bargaining issues is currently being circulated among non-teaching staff members by the LCC Employees Federation. Interested employees should fill out the questionnaire and return it to Mike Rose (Lang. Arts) or Dave Croft (Social Science) by Dec. 12--not Dec. 6 as stated on the cover. Anyone who has not received a copy of the questionnaire by today should see Jean Shaffer. A similar survey was recently completed by the college's faculty.

TAYLOR ON BOARD -- Diana Taylor, LCC's nurse clinician, has been elected to the Board of the Oregon Nurses Assn. for a two-year term. The Board, one of 25 in the state, regulates the professional activities of some 250 nurses in Lane County.

PRINTING/GRAPHICS SERVICES -- Will be closed December 24 through January 1.

LAST DAY -- Persons intending on filing idea papers for the $3,000 in instructional money released by the trustees of the development fund should have their ideas in to Lyle Swetland by the end of working hours today.

PRINTING/GRAPHICS SERVICES -- Will be closed Dec. 24-Jan. 1. Departments needing material from the print shop for the first week of winter term should make arrangements as soon as possible.

READING PROBLEMS -- Jim Ellison of study skills is currently circulating some information on the reading abilities of the American public that goes a long way toward proving that Johnny can't read his way out of a wet paper bag. Among some of the statistics are the following: 1,443,000 Americans cannot read or write at all; in junior and community colleges 30-50 percent of new students require remedial help in reading; at least 36 of every 100 elementary school children who need extra help with reading do not receive it; if eight years of schooling is the standard for functional literacy, there are 19,000,000 Americans who do not meet it. If the standard is 12 years, the figure becomes 70 million.

Jim points out the need for additional instructional adjustments or learning options if the college is to meet the needs of these potential students. Many of them--more than you might think--live in Lane County, where 40 percent of the adults over 25 do not have a high school diploma.

XEROX READINGS DUE -- Call Carol Beckley.

HB2263 AVAILABLE -- Still in the dark about all the ins and outs of the collective bargaining bill? Thirty copies of HB2263 are being distributed by Evelyn Tennis and will also be available for personal loan at the library and from her in Financial Aids.

DID SOMEONE MENTION COLLECTIVE BARGAINING? -- Classified employees have until Wednesday to return the bargaining questionnaire being circulated by the LCC Employees Federation. The survey, intended to isolate potential bargaining issues, should be returned to Mike Rose of language arts or Dave Croft in social science.

SALE TODAY -- There will be a student pottery sale today from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the cafeteria foyer.

TUESDAY
DECEMBER 11, 1973

PERB HEARINGS TOMORROW -- Whether the LCC staff is split into two bargaining groups or kepts as one, and the question of who is and is not exempt from the bargaining process will be discussed tomorrow during the Public Employee Relations Board hearings in the Board Room. The public hearing, scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., is preliminary to selection (or non-selection) of a bargaining agent. An election date has not been set.

Representatives speaking for the three primary interest groups tomorrow will be Ted Kulongoski, OEA/NEA; Bob Crosier, AFT; and Lon Mills, the LCC Board of Education. All staff members are invited.

THE STUDENT POTTERY SALE CONTINUES -- Today from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the cafeteria.

INTERVIEWS TOMORROW -- Robert Peck of the Educational Coordinating Council will be interviewing candidates for grants under the Program for the Improvement of Undergraduate Instruction tomorrow, and there are still appointment times open. Staff members who wish to present proposals should call Lisl Fenner as soon as possible. Remaining openings are 11:50 a.m. and the entire afternoon after 1:20.

RETURNING STUDENTS -- Begin registration today and will continue through Thursday. New students register Dec. 27.

CLASSIC RESULTS -- Approximately 1,000 fans watched the two-day Christmas Seal Classic this weekend in which Feather River Junior College of Quincy, Calif. clobbered LCC 92-76 in the championship game and Treasure Valley CC took Northwest Christian College for third place. All proceeds from the tournament went to the Oregon Lung Assn.

LIBRARY DISPLAY -- Stained glass art work, consisting mostly of Christmas scenes and decorations, will be on display throughout the holiday season in the library. The exhibit is by Springfield artist Geneva Lloyd and features many holiday-period pieces including a large nativity scene, hanging church medallions and Christmas tree decorations.

PRINTING/GRAPHICS TO BE CLOSED -- The print shop will be closed Dec. 24-Jan. 1. Departments requiring printing for the first week of winter term are urged to submit their requests as soon as possible.

CABINET TODAY -- Agenda items for today's Cabinet meeting include: a statement from President Schafer on where we are in reorganization, a progress report on accreditation, and a report on what the college is doing to cope with the energy crisis. The meeting is at 3 p.m. in the Board Room and is open to all staff members.

THURSDAY

BOARD HIGHLIGHTS---Construction guidelines and priorities were adopted as expected last night, the Center Building remodelling project is nearing reality, and the Board approved a list of goals and purposes for establishing instructional priorities for curriculum development.

* The new construction guidelines look a lot like the old guidelines adopted in 1970, but with a few new wrinkles. Among them are high priority to projects which have already been committed and to projects which involve health and safety hazards, removal of the distinction between instructional space and instructional support space, and recognition that there may be facilities which impose such a limitation on operations that operation of the college is seriously affected. In all cases, original long-range plans for facilities and services will be honored. In the same breath, the Board also approved a list of some 30 construction priorities topped by the Florence skills center and gave the okay to begin work immediately on six construction or remodelling projects. Some of the six include a hitchhiking shelter near the main exit, improvements in the Industrial Tech building, completion of the baseball field and authorization to seek an architect for the design of the proposed maintenance building.

* Completion of the Center Building grows ever closer. Bids will be taken in the near future to begin work on the basement of the building, and later, the fourth floor. Plans call for the basement to house Printing & Graphics, Audio Visual Services, and Information Retrieval, plus four classrooms. The fourth floor then will be remodelled to house Study Skills, Language Arts and Social Science.

* The instructional goals and purposes the Board approved are actually refinements on already-approved instructional policy. Some of them include: providing career education opportunities in which job entry levels can be reached in short-term units; expanding course offerings that do not overlap existing programs; offering courses that apply toward fulfilling major discipline course requirements; and developing credit courses that serve the individual needs of the student.

PERB HEARING---Representatives of the AFT, OEA and the LCC Board haggled over the issue of whether there should be one or two bargaining units at the college yesterday during the first of two Public Employee Relations Board hearings on collective bargaining. An account of the hearing will be published as a special Daily edition later today.

YOUR DAYS OFF--For the holiday season are: Dec. 24,25,26 and Jan. 1. Nine-month contracted employees, of course, are off for the entire Christmas vacation.

PAMPHLET AVAILABLE---A pamphlet called "the Lane Community College District Annual Financial Report, Fiscal Year ending June 30, 1973" is on reserve at the library. Ask for booklet #2510.

LARRY MITCHELL DIES---Larry Mitchell, working at LCC through the Oregon Math Education Council, died yesterday of an apparent heart attack. Larry was driving his daughter to school when apparently his heart failed and his car ran off the road. His daughter was unhurt. Larry is survived by his wife Georgia and three children. Funeral services are pending.

NO INSTRUCTIONAL COUNCIL--Until Jan. 17.

NEW BUSINESS MANAGER---A 33-year old vice president of a South Dakota transport company has been hired as the new LCC business manager. Jerry D. Fischer was hired last night by the Board and will begin work Jan. 2. For the past seven months he has been vice president for administration and corporate secretary for All American Transport Co. of Sioux Falls, S.D., and prior to that he the budget officer for the state of South Dakota and the South Dakota board of higher education.

REMINDER TO INSTRUCTORS---Be sure the master score cards used for exams are labled "Datronics" of "Automata 1200 Program Card". Datronics cards are scored in the business dept. and Automata cards are scored in study skills. All Cards and masters are obtained from the warehouse.

This is a special edition of the Daily concerning yesterday's public hearing by the Public Employee Relations Board. At issue was whether the LCC staff should be split into two groups or kept as a single unit in the collective bargaining process.

A week. Maybe two.

That is how long it will be before PERB Hearings officer Darrell Smith hands down his recommendation on the future of collective bargaining group(s) at Lane Community College; and after that it could be another couple of weeks before the Public Employee Relations Board makes it official.

The recommendation--when it does come--will be based on nearly four hours of testimony gathered yesterday during the first of two public hearings held by PERB to determine a crucial collective bargaining question: will there be one or two bargaining groups on the LCC campus?

Everybody has an opinion, including representatives and witnesses speaking for the Oregon Education Assn. and the American Federation of Teachers--the two labor organizations going after the job as bargaining agent for the LCC staff.

Testimony revolved around a handfull of key issues:

- * historical precedence.
- * occupational differences between classified and instructional staff.
- * differences in attitudes and desires of the two groups.
- * occupational goals.
- * conflicts of interest.

Local #2417 of the AFT argued that historically speaking, classified and instructional staff have been getting along just fine over the years via the Staff Association. Former Staff Assn. president Steve John based his claim of cooperation on experience in the Association and working closely with the Staff Personnel Policies Committee in previous negotiations with the Board.

OFT spokesman Tud Kulongoski tried to counter John's testimony by stating that the Staff Assn. and the SPPC were created by the Board of Education and therefore the everyone-is-in-the-same-boat type of membership was dictated and not voluntary. John responded that the impressive number of staff members voting to approve the Assn. constitution implied overall approval by the entire staff.

Other issues the AFT and OEA clashed on were the basic differences between classified and certified employees and whether there had ever been, in fact, collective bargaining on the LCC campus.

AFT witnesses and spokesman Robert Crosier acknowledged there were some occupational differences between the two campus groups but added that there were even more similarities and that a single unit--even with a variety of goals--would be more effective under one umbrella.

Kulongoski disagreed, testifying that the differences between the two groups ran quite deep. With assistant to the president Bert Dotson on the stand, the OEA spokesman established such differences as hiring practices, contracts, salary guides, personnel services, recruiting techniques and working schedules. He also attempted to establish that many personal and professional goals of the two groups were incompatible. No classified employees testified at the hearing.

But perhaps the major point of departure between the AFT and the OEA was on the issue of prior collective bargaining. Crosier and witnesses John and Mike Rose claimed that past negotiations with the Board were in fact collective bargaining within the framework of the law. Until Oct. 5 Boards were not obliged to enter into binding bargaining.

However, for several years, particularly during the past two years the SPPC has been the negotiating arm of the Staff Assn., the AFT representatives claimed that bargaining did exist and that it existed in a single-unit situation.

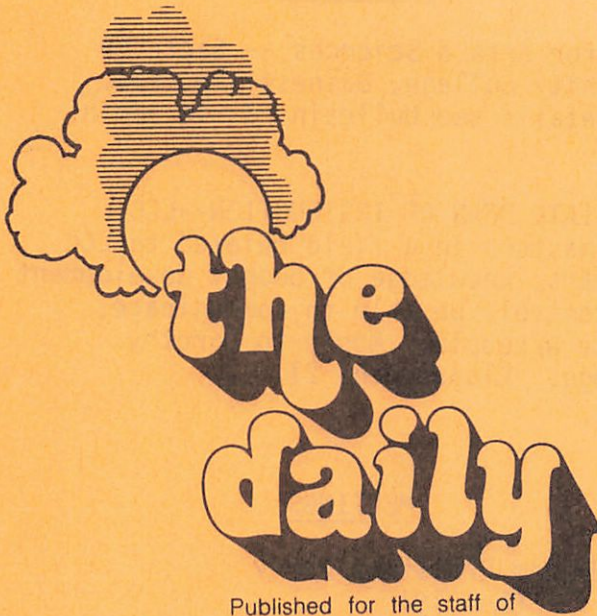

The OEA sharply disagreed, calling the "negotiations" of the past "consultation" and that the only true collective bargaining is the system spelled out in HB2263. The OEA was backed up by Board spokesman Lon Mills.

It will be around that issue more than any other, perhaps, that will help determine what happens in a week or two.

Smith will submit his recommendations first to the parties involved and they will have 10 days to object if there is any disagreement. Following that the recommendation will be turned over to the Public Employee Relations Board for a final decision.

Then: Hearing Number Two. In that hearing testimony will be taken to determine who and who should not be exempt from the bargaining unit. A date for that hearing has not been set.

FRIDAY

SERVICES FOR LARRY MITCHELL -- There will be a Rosary at St. Paul's Catholic Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m. for Larry Mitchell, who died Wednesday of an apparent heart attack. The funeral is scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday at St. Paul's, located at 475 Satre in Eugene. The family requests that in lieu of flowers, a contribution to an educational fund for Larry's children be given. This is being handled through McGaffey-Andreason, who is also handling the funeral.

STAMPS AVAILABLE -- JoAnn Creek has loose stamps for sale in the mailroom. In addition, JoAnn said she would be happy to forward packages to the post office during the holiday season as long as they are properly wrapped and stamped.

HOUGLUM, HOWARD PUBLISH -- Two publications--one a collection of short stories and the other a broadcasting text--were released yesterday by the LCC Press. Authors are John Howard ("Six Shorts by Long John") and Roger Houglum ("Federal Regulation and Private Ownership"), and both books are for sale in the college bookstore. Prices: 75 cents for "Six Shorts by Long John", and $1.95 retail, $1.45 wholesale for "Federal Regulation and Private Ownership".

CAREER EDUCATION COURSE -- A course titled "Cluster Career Programs" will be offered this winter term by Lane IED. The course, designed for teachers and administrators in all subjects on all levels, carries three hours of credit and will be offered Mondays from 7-10 p.m. beginning Jan. 7. Cost is $40. Register through the IED Career Education office, 342-5576, ext. 24.

DEADLINE EXTENDED -- The proposal deadline for the TRIO grants (Upward Bound, Talent Search and Special Services for Students) is changed from December to sometime in late January. However, applicants are urged to present their proposals as soon as possible.

INSTRUCTIONAL COUNCIL MEETING which was cancelled on December 7 - due to the Great Storm - will be held on Thursday, December 21, treating the same agenda.

THE OHIO DEPARTMENT of Education has just finished tabulating 12,500 written recommendations from a statewide "Search for Consensus" in education; and a recent issue of TRENDS comments on the results. Heading the list of the 10 top citizens' concerns was improving communication between the school and the community. Dick Grosenbaugh, administrative assistant for public information, concluded: "more emphasis should be placed on stressing to each individual in the school system the important role he or she plays in the overall relationship of the school to the community." If any employee can't, or won't, answer a question, a citizen may feel the entire school system has the same attitude. High on the priority list, he feels, must be "educating the entire staff about the entire system. . .so that they will be informed communicators when communicating."

TEACHERS "TRUTH SQUAD": TRENDS further notes the formation of a "truth squad" by a group of teachers in the St. Johns (Mich) Education Assn. Disturbed by apparent misconceptions in the public mind, the teachers formed a voluntary organization which operates year-round to "create some credibility with the public by countering the confusion about what a teacher does, and why."

In New York City, citizens attending Board of Education meetings can ask questions of experts at special tables set up in the room adjoining the board room. Employees of various offices such as Instruction, Special Education, Planning & Research, man the tables to field whatever specialized questions are asked.

Another interesting experiment is being tried in Richmond, Va., where a telephone "Fact Center" has been established. Any citizen with a question about the schools may receive an answer by calling the "Fact Center" number. In line with conclusions noted in the Ohio Department of Education survey, the service has turned out to be a boon to school employees who did not know where else to turn for reliable information.

"THE PROSPECT FOR HUMANITY" will be the topic of a talk to be given by R. Buckminster Fuller in his appearance at SWOCC on Sunday, January 7. In his presentation, Fuller will illustrate how existing modern technology is capable of eliminating waste of manpower and human resources, and of solving problems of need on the one hand and oversupply on the other.

World Magazine describes Buckminster Fuller as "probably one of the most trusted and loved human beings now alive. He has a philosophy that human intelligence is equal to humankind's most complex needs. He is aware of all the dangers of unlimited growth and technological expansion, but he is even more aware that humankind has hardly even begun to direct its brainpower to its major challenges. Fuller sees our planet as a spaceship with infinite possibilities for creative human development, social justice, human betterment, and the full release of the joyous spirit."

Mr. Fuller's presentation will be at 2 p.m. Sunday, January 7, in Upper Prosper Hall, Southwestern Oregon Community College. Admission is $1 for adults, 50¢ for students; all sales at the door.

"CLUSTER CAREER PROGRAMS," a general course on career education, will be offered in the Eugene-Springfield metropolitan area during winter term. The course actually deals with considerably more than "cluster" programs; in fact, according to a memorandum from the office of Bill Manley, Coordinator of Career Education for Lane I.E.D., it should be beneficial to teachers and administrators in all subjects and on all levels. Topics and projects will include material for career awareness in the elementary grades, career exploration in the middle grades, occupational emphasis and specialization for grades 11-14, career guidance and counseling, and relating career education to all areas of the curriculum.

The course carries three hours of OSU graduate credit and will be offered on Monday evenings, 7-10 p.m., beginning January 12, 1973. Cost is $30 per participant; registration reservations (preregistration) must be made with the IED Career Education office, 342-5576, X-24.

Association (NJCAA), according to word from the national headquarters in Hutchinson, Kansas. Tarpenning has been coach at LCC for five seasons, and in his tenure LCC has won the Oregon Community College championship for the past two years, the Region 18 cross country title in 1969, 71, and 72, and (who can forget that?) the national title at Pensacola (Fla.) last fall.

As famous as Paka is becoming, he is being out-classed by a dog belonging to one of the profs. in Bill's department. THE SERIES OF Christmas parties sponsored by the Student Association and students of the LCC Early Childhood Education program ends today. It has been, say all, a complete success. . .and for Anne Stewart, who acted as coordinator for the group, an educational experience. Since the first two parties here on campus, the Santa Claus troupe has taken taken a party to Head Start Centers in Oakridge, Springfield, Eugene, Creswell, and Junction City; and the series ends with a party in Elmira this morning.

Says Anne, "the response has been heartwarming, everywhere we went. For some of the low-population, low income areas, our little party was the only celebration of Christmas these children would know, outside of what their families could do for them on Christmas Day. The Department Store Santas, or the Mall Santa, or things like the Bon Marché breakfast-and-Santa-visit. . .none of the color and excitement familiar to our Christmas has been available to these children. I've enjoyed every bit of it. . .even the seemingly endless wrapping of gifts!"

Every child attending the parties received a gift; and the special feature of each party (well, next to Santa himself) was the breaking of a candy-filled pinata. Students in the Early Childhood Education program planned and coordinated the party activities, and constructed the pinatas. Gifts and refreshments were paid for by the ASLCC budget, with some contributions from local groups. And Santa was impersonated alternatively by Jay Boulton or Chuck Packnett.

Children at the Oakridge party had prepared letters which they gave to Santa, and which Santa, after carefully noting the contents, left at LCC to be displayed on the bulletin board in the Administration building. As a sample, we offer the letter signed "Mike":

Dear Santa,

I want a motorcycle, a T.V., and a Johnny West and a horse. You can come to our house first, Santa. I will get up in the middle of the night to go to the bathroom. Hi to Rudolph.

Love,

Mike
