Presidential Primary To Be Held Here, April 24

LCC Supports Choice 68

The nation's first National Collegiate Presidential Primary was organized by student leaders last February.

To date, nearly 1000 colleges, including LCC, with enrollments numbering over five million students, representing 75 per cent of the total student electorate, have decided to participate in the CHOICE 68 election.

In the Washington meeting, the program's Board of Directors drew up the CHOICE 68 ballot, thereby selecting 14 candidates and three referendum questions to be placed before the voters. The students have already indicated that not only self-declared will be included on the ballot, but also many in addition whom the Board feel students would like to see considered for the Presidency-- including the retention of President Johnson's name. Hubert Humphrey's, as well as any other political figure's name may be written in.

Reaction from government and academic circles has been extremely favorable. Letters supporting the project have so far been received from Senators Robert Kennedy, Edward Brooke, Charles H. Percy, Eugene McCarthy, and former Vice-President Richard Nixon, among others. Typical of this pattern of favorable response was that of Senator Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., who wrote, in part: "Most college students today are infinitely more mature and aware of national and world events than were their parents at the same age. I think the idea of CHOICE 68 is excellent, and (I) will be anxious to see the results."

Locally, Dr. Dale Parnell said he thought LCC's students should take a "very active interest in the political arena," locally, regionally, and nationally.

Of the referendum questions, two deal with the country's current involvement in Viet Nam, and one with the priorities of government spending in confronting the "urban crisis." Even with the President's announcement March 31, the CHOICE 68 philosophy remains the same; that is, it is designed to see who and what students would like, rather than "who can get in," according to Mike Fancher, a member of the Board of Directors, and editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald at the University of Oregon.

Strobe Talbott, past chairman of the Yale (University) Daily News and a member of the Board, feels that the Viet Nam referendum had to be "properly phrased towards alternative solutions," and indicated that a simple "yes or no vote" would fail to register accurately the profundity of pro and anti war sentiments on the campus. To aid them in ensuring that the various questions are properly pointed towards achieving maximum impact and clearest interpretation, the Board arranged to meet with several top poll and survey experts.

"The politically conscious university students are potentially a very powerful force in this country," said James Reston of the New York Times. "Their intelligence and energy could be critical, and in many places even decisive, if they really got down to the hard work of helping the best candidates available. It all depends, however, on whether they want to dream or work."

Convocation will "swing"

"A swing-en" convocation will be held April 10, at 11 a.m. in the Bethel gym. and at 8 p.m. at Harris Hall.

Bob Norman, director of the band and choir says "This program will be the swiftest convocation held this year."

The show will feature contemporary music, both serious and popular.

Terry Nousen, baritone soloist, will sing "I Got Plenty of Nothin'", accompanied by Cathy Collins on piano. Cathy will also accompany the trumpet trio of Ken White, Don Callis and Bruce Doran in their rendition of "Buglers Holiday."

Carol Brubaker's dancers will present a show featuring dances from several different countries done in native costumes.

After playing at the convocation the groups will go on a road tour and present the show to the Mapleton and Reedsport High Schools on April 25.

Election for secretaries Wednesday, April 10

A special student body election for corresponding secretary and recording secretary will be held Wednesday, April 10.

Those running for student body corresponding secretary are Susan Friedemann, Jenny Bright, Sue Lloyd and Pat Clifton. The present corresponding secretary is Barbara Bronson. According to the ASB constitution, the duties of the corresponding secretary are to be responsible for all correspondence and to be in charge of student body bulletin boards.

Jorgine Aagard, Lee Pettigrew and Joyce Early are running for recording secretary. The elected recording secretary will assume the duties from Judy Ray. She must keep a record of all meetings and proceedings and keep all student body documents on file in the student body offices. Polling places will be on all three campuses. Only full-time students can vote.

Bahai's plan discussions

The LCC Baha'i Fellowship will begin a series of public meetings on contemporary discussion topics this week.

The newly formed group will sponsor a talk by Mrs. Lutz, anthropology instructor at LCC, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 4.

Zelda retires

Gossip columnist ZELDA retired this month and turned over her column and typewriter to SNOOPY. Geared with pencil, glasses and the famed Snoopy-pose, he'll be ready to answer all your questions.

If you need advice on love, life, or general information, address your letter to DEAR SNOOPY c/o The Torch office and send it off by way of campus mail. He's clearing off the cobwebs on the typewriter, so we'll be hearing from you.--Stan Blumenthal

Miss Fiorentino to head nurses

Miss Mary Catherine Fiorentino will direct LCC's Associate Degree Nursing program which is to begin next fall.

Miss Fiorentino, who is presently an instructor-intern in the Portland Community College ADN program, will assume the directorship of the Nursing Department here on July 1.

She has a master of nursing degree from the University of Washington, a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Seattle University, and a nursing diploma from the University of British Columbia.

Her past experiences include three years as a nurse in the Canadian Reserve Army, a year as teaching assistant in the University of Washington School of Nursing, two and one-half years of hospital nursing, and four and one-half years instructing in diploma schools of nursing.--Alameda Randall

Article not offensive

"Crude, tasteless, offensive." These adjectives were used in a letter to the editor from Hugh Davis concerning a story published in the April Fool's issue of The Torch. (See editorial page).

"Guide for the Unmarried Man" was written by Gene Cogburn and printed along with several other articles in an issue published as a joke by the journalism department.

Davis took exception to Cogburn's story and wrote a letter to Charlotte Reece, editor of The Torch, and to Dr. Parnell, LCC's President, demanding that action be taken against Cogburn. Davis also criticized The Torch for allowing an article which he termed as, "crude, nearly obscene and completely unworthy of publication in any form" to be printed.

Wednesday, Media Board, as the publisher of the paper was requested by Dr. Parnell to make a formal statement on the article. The Media Board felt that the worst that the article could be termed was "tasteless in parts." It was felt that this article could possibly be termed a personal affront to Cogburn because of previously displayed antagonism with Davis.

Media Board passed a motion stating that they found no merit to the charges (those made by Davis) in the light that the article was printed in an April Fool's issue and was stated in the issue that "Opinions expressed are entirely false. No offense is intended to anyone." The Media Board gave its complete support to the editor who is entirely responsible for what is printed in the college publication.--Joann Gibbs

Suzanne a finalist

Suzanne Knight, 19, an LCC student, will compete Saturday with several other local beauties in the annual Miss Eugene pageant.

Suzanne graduated from Herbert Hoover High School in San Diego, Calif., in 1966. She previously attended Northwest Christian College. Suzanne is interested in drama, and she enjoys sports, writing and meeting new people.

Sunny To Shine In Pageant

Sunny Hill, representing LCC in the Miss Springfield Pageant has advanced to the

The Saturday evening pageant will be held at 8 o'clock in the Thurston High School gym. The 10 finalists will model in formals and in swimsuits for the judges. In the talent division, Miss Hill will again perform a contemporary dance routine.

The LCC beauty said five finalists will be selected. Later in the evening, Miss Springfield will be crowned, with the other finalists serving as her court.

Early in the competition, Sunny laughed off her chances of winning. Now, she is a finalist. "It is a shock," but it's a "good shock," she said. Sunny mentioned "most of all" she enjoyed being able to get along with the other girls and she appreciates the friends the girls have found in each other. You can "let your hair down," she added. semi-finals, and will complete competition April 6.

Special election April 10

Last term LCC students elected Susan Friedemann to serve as ASB corresponding secretary for 1968-69. Now elections are going to be held again Wednesday, April 10 to elect next year's corresponding secretary and recording secretary.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"HE'S A GOOD TEACHER, BUT SOMETIMES NOT VERY PATIENT WITH THE SLOWER STUDENTS."

Of course, we realize that a new recording secretary needs to be elected because Pat Jacobs, recording secretary-elect, quit school.

However, it seems that when a student was elected to such a position by her fellow students, the Student Senate should not be able to come along one month later and say she was unqualified to run. If she was unqualified to run, this should have been discovered before the March election.

The ASB constitution is partly at fault because under qualifications for officers, it states a candidate for office must be a full-time student. But no one on Senate has specifically said whether candidates must be full-time student when they are elected, or whether they can be full-time students after they are elected.

There probably shouldn't be any problem next Wednesday, because if the students elected a person once, they should elect her again. After all, it's only a mere formality, because all the candidates running this time are qualified.-- The editors.

Apply for editorships

The selection of editors for the college publications for the 1968-69 year, whether to confer a Journalist of the Year award and a report on "Cover the Campus" day were topics of discussion at the monthly meeting of Media Board yesterday.

Applications for next year's editors for The Torch, LCC's weekly newspaper, and The Titan, LCC's yearbook, will be taken during the next two weeks. Applicants are asked to pick up applications from Larry Romine, publications editor, in Room 6-B on the Eugene campus. The deadline for applications will be 5 p.m. on April 22. Qualifications for those interested in applying are 2.00 or above GPA and a full-time student. Previous journalistic experience or training is preferred. The person selected as editor for each position will receive tuition for each term (usually three terms) that he serves as editor.

It was decided to confer a Journalist of the Year Award, although who is to receive it will not be announced until later. Applicants for this award are: Debbie Jo Briggs, Titan editor; Gene Cogburn, sports editor for The Torch; Jerry Foster, associate editor for The Torch; Joann Gibbs, Torch advertising manager; and Charlotte Reece, Torch editor. This award is given to "honor an outstanding student in the field of publications," according to Larry Romine. The award was given to Vicki Merrill, co-editor of both The Torch and Titan last year. It consists of a framed certificate stating the honor which the journalist has received. The recipient of the certificate will be announced at the All-college Awards Convocation, which will be held at a later date which has not yet been announced.

A report on the "Cover the Campus" day was given. This is to be given for high school journalists that are students in the LCC district. The high school students will be told of the opportunities that are available to them in the journalism department at LCC. Dr. Parnell announced that this conference will be held May 3, at the new campus. The editors for this year and the editors-elect for next year will be available to talk to the visitors. Three one-term scholarships to LCC will be awarded to the incoming student that writes the best news story, and submits the best photograph. A third award which is as yet undetermined, will also be given.

Other business of the Media Board included:

*Debbie Jo Briggs gave a report progress on The Titan. She stated that work on the yearbook is well under way. Weekly meetings have been organized and will be held Thursday evenings at 7 p.m. in The Titan office on Bethel campus. These meetings will be work sessions to keep up with production in order to meet the April 15 deadline and the final deadline on June 15.

Administrative meetings will be held on Monday evenings to get work organized. These meetings will be primarily for Miss Briggs, editor; Dan Rosen, associate editor and Betty Ekstrom, Titan advisor. In an overall look at the annual, work was reported to be progressing well.

*Advertising receipts for The Torch during Winter Term were reported on in a written report by Joann Gibbs, advertising manager. Receipts for the nine issues of Winter Term were $647.50, averaging approximately $71.94 per issue.

*Bob Adams and Betty Ekstrom were seated to replace former members of Media Board. Adams replaced Anne Jellison who is no longer a student at LCC. Mrs. Ekstrom was selected to replace Marje Blood, as a staff member of the Board. Mrs. Blood is no longer employed at LCC.-- Joann Gibbs

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Trash printed

Dear Miss Reece:

I write in reference to your April 1 issue in which appeared a piece of trash concocted by Gene Cogburn. The "Guide for the Unmarried Man" departs completely from the tone of the paper which I assumed was intended to be farcial in nature. It is crude, nearly obscene and completely unworthy of publication in any form. I strongly suspect the merit of your efforts, considering the fact that the school grants you free tuition for being editor, when you allow such trival to appear in the school paper under your authority as editor. How you authorize anything like Cogburn's immaturity to appear under the guise of college journalism is beyond my comprehension. It shames me to have been a member of your staff when I think that you might permit writing of this level to appear before your reading public.

Now addressing myself to Mr. Cogburn, I congratulate you on keeping with the spirit of April Fool's Day as no one but a fool could have presumed that what you have written is garbage. I would caution you on presenting your journalistic efforts to your dates for appraisal or you would indeed remain unmarried. I would not oppose any chastisement, physical or otherwise, they might impose upon you. Since your dregs have already been subjected to the eyes of faithful Torch readers, I have no recourse but to demand your letter of apology in the next appropriate issue. If such a letter is not forthcoming, I shall ask the Student Senate and the president's office to seek your dismissal from the staff of The Torch.

Most sincerely yours,
Hugh Davis

Editor's note: See the story on page one concerning the decision made by Media Board.

Dig the class

To the Editor:

We, the students, have come to college to learn how to make a living other than by digging ditches. Now, would the college please offer us a class on how to drive through them, ie., Bethel campus driveway.

FAA ground school opened

Ten students have completed the FAA-approved Ground School at LCC.

They are Robert Davis, James Demings, Keith Ludington, David Seamans, Richard Greemawalt, all of Thurston. Others include Wayne Rice of Alvadore, Richard Williams of Portland, Robert Meier of Salem and Richard Bynum of Florence.

The certificates of completion were awarded as part of the two-year Associate of Science degree leading to a commercial pilot's license.

Basic ground school is the first of a sequence which includes advanced ground school and instrument ground school.

Flight professor Marvin Hovland is in charge of the program.

Divisions now departments

Q: WE HEAR THERE'S AN ADMINISTRATIVE REORGANIZATION GOING ON INSIDE LCC. WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

A: The college is always trying to improve the quality of instruction. Teaching, after all, is the reason for LCC's existence. One means of strengthening instruction is to improve the quality of helpful supervision for teachers.

Presently, LCC has nine teaching divisions, some of them with more than two dozen teachers. It's difficult for division chairmen to supervise closely and to have college-level, depth knowledge in all the varied disciplines which they supervise. Obviously, it's difficult for a specialist in one field to suggest to a specialist in a different field how best to teach his specialty.

To overcome problems like this, the Board of Education has approved a plan, starting next fall, for dividing the present nine divisions into 21 smaller departments. This will make it possible for a master teacher to head each department, with his primary assignment teaching rather than administration. It will be possible for him to have a depth understanding of the subjects taught in his department and therefore to share a commonality of interests with his teachers. We believe the students will profit greatly from this reorganization.

Departments next fall will include: Business, Electronics Data Processing, Electronics, Fine and Applied Arts, Performing Arts, Health and Physical Education, Industrial Technology, English and Foreign Language, Mathematics, Mass Communications, Mechanics-Transportation and Aerospace, Nursing, Paradental and Paramedical, Science, Social Sciences, Home Economics and Textiles, Food Technology, Adult Education, Special Manpower Training, Developmental Education, and Learning Resource Center.

LBJ Speaks To Choice 68

WASHINGTON, (AP)--President Johnson said last month that, despite the Communist offensive in Vietnam, his San Antonio Formula offer for peace talks still stands and "we would meet them tomorrow."

Johnson discussed Vietnam, dissent at home and unrest in the cities in a wide-ranging 75-minute question and answer session with a group of 11 college students.

Johnson said that, in seeking peace in Vietnam, "we have gone just as far as decent and honorable people can go."

But he said he stands behind his 1967 offer to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and talk promptly if the Communists indicated this would be productive.

But, addressing the Communists in effect, he added: "We don't want you to take advantage like you did during the Tet" (Lunar New Year).

If Hanoi is interested, Johnson said, it wouldn't have to change a "could" to a "will" or indulge in any other semantical niceties in stating its position.

The college students who met with Johnson in the White House living quarters were members of the National Board of Choice 68, a national collegiate presidential preference primary to be held on more than 1000 campuses April 24.

In the balloting, students not only will pick their choice for the presidency but will express themselves on referenda issues including Vietnam and the urban crisis.

Johnson was asked how he felt about anti-war sentiment and demonstrations on college campuses.

"They sadden me, they trouble me, I think because I know how they feel," the President replied.

He said it would be a "very unusual student" who wouldn't be concerned, who wouldn't seek alternatives, who wouldn't want to see the war ended as quickly as possible, who wouldn't want to face death on the battlefield.

While reading a cable from Vietnam in his limousine, Johnson said, he could not help reflecting that Robb (son-in-law, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb) is due for assignment there next month and, he said, "I had no trouble understanding at all."

He said he is concerned not only about Robb but about all Americans in uniform.

The chief executive conceded that a lot of students "think there is a better way out than what we're doing."

Arguing with considerable emotion for his policies, Johnson said:

"You can't run a war by polls and you can't be oblivious to public opinion."

Johnson said that if some kind of meter could be devised to measure human feeling and were installed in a National Security Council meeting, and if the council members were asked if they wanted peace in Vietnam, he would be "that needle would swing around farther than at Berkeley or Texas of Harvard."

He said he is convinced that the council members are working harder for peace than the people on the campuses he cited.

"I don't know how to do anything better than we are doing," he said. "If there were, I would do it."

Johnson declared that as a college newspaper editor "I was protesting nearly everything around me."

He said he began by protesting against some of the policies of the college president and wound up protesting against the President of the United States.--"that was when Hoover was president."

He said he believes young people are always in the advance guard in expressing their opinion and that this "causes people to stop, look, listen, evaluate."

The first question put to Johnson was whether he thought it would be possible to avert another round of urban riots this summer.

"I don't think you can avert a bad summer," he said. "We'll have a bad summer. We'll have several bad summers."

He said the mistakes of centuries cannot be undone overnight but he expressed hope Congress would deal kindly with his legislative proposals aimed at easing the plight of city dwellers.

On the subject close to Choice 68, which is being financed by Time Magazine, Johnson said he doesn't believe in compulsion but if he did, he would compel voting.

He said, "I think you'd have a better government and I think we'd have more Democrats."

He cited statistics that only about half of the eligible young people vote whereas three-quarters of older citizens vote.

Declaring this to be most unfortunate, he said the young should vote in greater numbers because they are "more adventurous people."

NO. 7 IN A SERIES

Memorization not enough

By HOWARD BIRD
SSC Director

Excerpted from the World Publishing Company book, "Study Faster and Retain More,"

Do you know what the capital of Kentucky is? What was the date of the First Continental Congress? Name the different kinds of algae. What is the precise formulation of Charles's Law?

If you had the answer to those questions on the tip of your tongue, don't bother to read any further. You already know how to memorize. But if you couldn't answer them all, here's why.

At one time in your schooling, you had to memorize the capitals of the states. You probably remembered them too--until the test was over.

What happened was that you formed a kind of nervous "rut" in your brain between say, Kentucky and Frankfort. On the test, when the teacher said "Kentucky," a little bell would connect Kentucky with Frankfort--and you'd get an A on your test.

But once the test was over, you didn't use the rut any more and it gradually disappeared. That's why you didn't know it today. Because memorizing works over a short period of time, but it doesn't stick.

So never be satisfied with memorization without understanding. If you understand something, it'll stick; it becomes part of you. Straight memorizing doesn't stick.

But there are times when memorization is necessary. Dates in history, formulas in physics, definitions in math, selection of poetry--all may require memorization. But memorize them only after you've understood why they should be as they are.

There seems to be three different types of memories: visual, auditory and olfactory.

Most people (about 90 percent) have visual memories. They remember pictures better than sounds. If you have a visual memory, use it. For instance, if you have to remember a long series of items, think of a picture you can associate with each item (the sillier the better), then tie all the pictures into a single big picture and just remember that. On a test, it'll be easy to "decode" the picture.

You may have an auditory memory. (If you're musically inclined, you'll probably be an "audiophile.") For you, the best way to memorize is in singsong, repetitive patterns--the more tuneful the better.

Another good way that seems to work equally well for both types of memories is to make nonsense words from the first letter of each item to be memorized.

A few people remember odors more easily than they remember sounds or pictures. Despite modern research with perfumed texts, no sure-fire memorization technique for the "odorophiles" has been discovered.

No matter what type you are, save the memorization until shortly before a test; it's the only way you can be sure it'll stick.

Working behind the scenes this year, often until 6 p.m. every other Thursday, has been LCC's Student Senate.

Several changes have been made and others are in the process of changing.

The name Student Senate was chosen at the beginning of the year instead of Student Council.

Under Larry Barker, ASB first vice-president, the constitutional revision committee has come up with several changes which will strengthen the constitution.

Leon Lindsay has served as the 1967-68 ASB president. Besides Barker as first v.p., GiGi Gamble served as second vice-president, Judy Ray as recording secretary, Barbara Bronson as corresponding secretary and Bob Adams as treasurer.

Gary McNabb, Oregon State Community College Association president and Patti Bauman, OSCCSA president, are also members of the Senate.

During the last three weeks of Spring Term, all new officers elected for next year and all current Senate members will have voting privileges. Marsh Johnson will serve as the 1968-69 ASB president.

Lyons Roars

Mike Lyons, with winning performances in five of six events, was named top all-around performer in the Winter Term gymnastics meet. Don Callis was the only other performer to gain a first place. He broke Lyons' domination with a win in the side horse event. The meet was held in the Bethel gym, Wednesday, March 6, at 2 p.m.

The top performance of the day was turned in by Lyons on the high bar. Lyons was awarded an 8.9 score for his performance in this event. His nearest competitor was Callis who was almost two points behind with a score of 7.1. Lyons was consistently over the 7.0 mark in almost all events.

Callis played second fiddle to Lyons most of the afternoon, as he finished second behind Lyons in the five events Lyons won. In the side horse event the most Lyons could muster was 5.3 points which left the way clear for Callis who grabbed first with 7.5 points. Gregg Smart stepped in front of Lyons with 5.5 points to grab the second.

Gott, Steele take top lifting honors

Bill Gott, competing in his first organized weight lifting meet, came away with the "strongest man" title in the Winter Term weight lifting meet. Gott won the title with a 20-pound margin over Jim Wade and Don Callis. His winning press was at the 240 pound mark.

Jim Steele won the "best lifter" championship with a composite score of 417.84. Steele was the only lifter to break the 400 point mark in the meet. Steele's mark was a new school record for his weight. Two other LCC students broke school records during the meet. Ray Hetlage and Rick Little entered the record books with 393.98 and 388.36 points respectively. The two lifters finished right behind Steele in the "best lifter" rankings.

In team competition the 8 a.m. class took the title by a wide margin, racking up 49 total points, and three first places in the separate weight divisions. The 4 p.m. class took second with 26 points. The 4 p.m. class, however, failed to register a first place.

In determining the champions for weight categories the point total is determined by the lifters' own weight in relationship to the amount of weight he is lifting. It is through this scoring method, an AAU official method, that allows a lighter lifter such as Steele to win the "best lifter" title with a lift of 210 pounds, while a bigger lifter such as Gott may lift 240 pounds, and still finish in eight place in the "best lifter" standings.

Absent from the meet was defending champion Doyle Kenady, who was sidelined by an ankle injury.

PARTICIPATION 1968

The sunny spring weather brings about a heavy increase in intramural outdoor activities in the coming term. Golf, softball, tennis and track all enter the intramural scheme of things for the first time this year. Activities in the continuing intramural sports of handball, badminton and most likely gymnastics and weight lifting will be held in the coming spring months.

Softball will be the major team sports for this term succeeding winter term's basketball. The slo-pitch edition of the sport is expected to form into a single eight team league, such as the one organized for basketball. All eight districts are encouraged to field a team so that full participation will be possible. Willamalane Park in Springfield has been acquired for the activity every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 4:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in any of these spring sports is urged to contact either The Torch sports editor or the director of intramurals, Mel Krause at Ext. 75 or 67 on the Bethel campus.

The slo-pitch softball league will have an organizational meeting Monday, April 8, at 7 p.m. in Room 88 on the Bethel campus. All district managers and interested persons are urged to attend or send a representative to this meeting.

Student participation in intramurals during Winter Term rose sharply over Fall Term, as some 250 individuals participated in the program. In all, there were six organized intramural activities, with the greatest participation coming in the league sport of basketball. Close to 80 students took part in the eight team basketball league. Activities in bowling, folk dancing, gymnastics, weight lifting, and wrestling all drew Winter Term intramuralists. With eight events on the calendar for Spring Term, the participation level is expected to increase highly in the coming months.

The following is a capsule summary of the Winter Term activities:

Basketball: Eight teams; seventy-eight players, fifteen officials. Champions: Springfield Beavers.

Bowling: Lane Community College Handicap Tournament, forty-four students. Champion: Dean Anderson.

Folk Dancing: Twenty-three students participated on Tuesday and Thursday nights. From these people we now have a performing group.

Gymnastics: Lane Community College Gymnastic's Championship. Twelve students participated. Champions in six events were determined.

Weight Lifting Championship, twenty-five students participated.

Wrestling: Lane Community College Wrestling Tournament: Twenty-eight students participated. Champions in seven weight classes were determined.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

There will be an organizational meeting Monday, April 8, for the intramural slo pitch softball league. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in Room 88 on the Bethel campus.

All district managers are urged to attend, or send a representative. The softball league will be organized from the turnout shown at this meeting. If you plan to participate in the program and cannot come to the meeting, please contact your district manager, or the Torch sports editor at Ext. 75 or Mel Krause, intramural director, at Ext. 67.

MEMBER

By GEORGE SKEIE

MEANING OF AGS

In our advertising and on our store window, no doubt many of you have observed a small oval emblem with "AGS" inscribed on it. This signifies membership in the American Gem Society--an organization of professional jewelers devoted to the up-grading of the jewelry industry. There are only slightly over a thousand retail jewelers in this country who are eligible to maintain membership in the Society. "AGS" associated with a jeweler is like "C.P.A." following an accountant's name.

First of all, it is necessary for the retail jeweler to prove professional training in gemology. This means the study of diamonds in all phases, proper gem identification and the modern methods of merchandising fine jewelry. Combined with this, is a proven record of the highest business ethics and integrity in selling, and an attractive store in keeping with the American Gem Society standards.

Naturally, SKEIE'S Jewelers is proud to display the American Gem Society emblem, and we strive very hard to live up to all the Rulings of the Society, as well as the FTC and Better Business Bureau regulations which are also mandatory for all Society members. We feel that AGS affiliation is one additional service that we can provide our customers, and is another good reason why you can shop with confidence in our store.
