OCCSA raps state policy

At the first fall section meeting of the Oregon Community College Student Association, Sunday, October 10 at Umpqua Community College, OCCSA voted to "take all means to kill State Board of Education policy 4550." This is the controversial policy which prohibits any "litigation, partisan or political causes, or supporting lobbying efforts."

This policy would apply only in cases where funding is received from sources other than voluntary donors.

It was noted that Dean Wilson, chairman of the OCCA coordinating council, will call an emergency meeting of the council in an attempt to forestall the adoption of this policy.

Present at the meeting were delegations from Chemeketa, Clackamas, Clatsop, Lane, Linn-

Benton, Mt. Hood, Portland, Southwestern Oregon, Treasure Valley, and Umpqua Community Colleges. Blue Mountain, and Central Oregon Community Colleges were absent.

LCC's delegation included Ron Davis, second vice-president (attending for Omar Barbarossa), Cheryl Burgess, senator, Dan Rosen, campus coordinator for OCCSA, and a reporter for the TORCH.

Massive constitutional changes were aired at the meeting. Primarily, these consist of restructuring OCCSA to provide a regional arrangement. This would create four regions: Mountain, Valley, Metro, and Southern. All regions would have three member schools, the only exception being Metro which would have four. LCC is to be in the Valley region.

Since no constitutional changes can be made anywhere except during conventions, and since the proposal came as a surprise to most of the delegates at the meeting, discussion on the proposal was tabled until the fall convention.

The other proposed constitutional change entails deleting the office of Publicity Director. This proposal accompanied the announcement that OCCSA may hire a 'Coordinating Secretary' who would be a year-round employee, and who will be paid $9,000 per year. He will work with both OCCSA and its parent organization, Oregon Community College Association. Part of his job will be to publish a newspaper, approval for which has just been received. The state has agreed to subsidize six issues yearly of an eight page tabloid. OCCSA has been guaranteed at least two pages of space in each issue.

Plans for the coming fall convention were announced. The convention is to be held in Ontario, Oregon, at Treasure Valley Community College.

OCCSA President, Wally Lien, announced that he had attended the National Association of Students convention which was held this summer. He termed the convention a "a rip-off."

Two possible immediate objectives for OCCSA were suggested. They were: draft counseling facilities at each college, and a uniform day-care center.

Bill of Rights approved

After nearly seven month's effort, LCC has finally established an all-campus document outlining the Rights and Responsibilities of all persons at this campus.

The LCC Institutional Bill of Rights, a 41-section document written by a student/staff committee, was approved and adopted as policy by the Board of Education, Oct. 6.

The concept of such a document grew out of a Student Bill of Rights which was tabled by the Board last April. College president Eldon Schafer was then asked to form a committee representing the student-body, classified personnel, faculty and administration to begin work on a document which would encompass all segments of the campus community.

According to Mark Parrish, vice-chairman of the committee and former ASLCC Publicity Director, the new Bill of Rights is "the best in the nation." Parrish, who travelled to several national conventions during the summer and reviewed similar documents told the Student Senate last week that the Institutional Bill of Rights proves that LCC is a forerunner in cooperative relationships among all segments of today's colleges.

The entire Institutional Bill of Rights is reprinted on page four in this issue of the TORCH.

Censure voted

by Tony Rogers

Thursday, Oct. 7 was the first full meeting of the Student Senate. The meeting opened in the midst of what Omar Barbarossa, student body president, termed "an open battle."

Barbarossa started the session by welcoming all new and returning students to the campus. He then read what he termed a promissory note. In the note, he promised to repay "all monies that I owe to the Associated Students of Lane Community College," by the fifth week of Fall term. He also promised to "resign all interfering offices and commitments immediately and devote myself fully to the 'ASLCC Presidency.'" He also said that any new involvement in conflicting off-campus activities would be undertaken only with the consent of the ASLCC Executive Cabinet. Barbarossa further promised to attend on a regular basis, all meetings to which he is the student body representative, and to "generally fulfill my presidential responsibilities and conduct myself in a manner befitting my office." Barbarossa then recommended a vote of censure for himself, listing "my less-than-propitious behavior" as the reason. He pledged to resign his office should the student government become unsatisfied with his adherence to the above mentioned promises. Barbarossa announced that he was calling for a vote of censure because he felt it involved a question of ethics.

(Prior to Thursday's meeting, it was disclosed that Barbarossa had charged $101.20 in personal telephone calls to the Student Senate billing number. Further, there was $28.00 charged to National Student Association convention expenses, for which there were no receipts. Barbarossa listed "personal problems" as the reason for expenditures.)

At this point, a short, but heated debate broke out between Ron Davis, second vice president, and Senator Jack Mermis. Mermis accused Davis and other members of the executive cabinet of stabbing the President in the back. Davis rebutted, saying this was untrue.

Barbarossa then called for the censure motion and it was passed by a roll call vote.

Ron Davis read a financial report, listing summer expenditures. Out of a total budget for the school year of $54,000, $2,219.95 was spent during the summer. The largest single expenditure was $1,133. This was the cost of sending four persons to the National Student Association in Ft. Collins Colorado. The total amount budgeted for conventions is $3,650. Also, out of an Activity budget of $8,000, $300 has been allotted for Iron Butterfly ticket refunds. $520 was spent for tuition grants and $2,280 has been allotted. This covers full tuition for executive cabinet members, and half tuition for Senators at large. $650 was budgeted for telephone calls, and $171 was spent. All of the amounts which are listed as budgeted show what money is available for the entire year.

The Senate voted to accept petitions for the more than 17 vacant Senate positions which are to be filled in the fall elections. The election is to be held during the seventh week of Fall Term.

Once again, the question of withdrawal from the Oregon Community College Association (OCCSA) was raised. It was decided that LCC will remain with the organization for at least one more year.

Bonnie Larson, Public Relations representative for "The New Hope Singers" was present at the Senate meeting. The Senate voted to pay $200 for a musical program by the "New Hope Singers."

Barbarossa announced during the meeting that room 235 will be utilized by the Student Awareness Center and room 234 will be occupied as a room for Club Representatives and Student Senators. It was also announced that this room will be equipped with a telephone.

The resignation of Mark Parrish, Publicity Director, was announced. Parrish announced that he was resigning in order to assume a position as Co-Manager of the Student Awareness Center.

As soon as Parrish's resignation was accepted, Carla Hampton was nominated by Omar Barbarossa to fill Parrish's vacancy. Hampton, a new student this fall, made no mention of any prior experience in the field of public relations. She did, however, evidence a great deal of enthusiasm for acceptance of the job, saying, "I wonder why all the Senate seats are not filled. . . I think it's due to a lack of communication." At this point, the Senate declined to confirm her appointment. The issue was postponed for one week.

A proposal to grant funds to the Transportation Co-op to initiate construction of a Share-A-Ride Shelter at 30th Ave. and Hilyar 1st. was shelved, pending a final statement by the Eugene City Council.

During the meeting, the Senate approved expenditures totaling $517. These included: $200 dues to OCCSA, $200 for "New Hope Musical Program"; $24 remaining debt to Sunriver Lodge; $18 remaining debt to Dr. Brauer; $25 dues for National Entertainment Conference.

Clay Myers speaks at Lane

Last Friday afternoon, Oregon's Secretary of State, Clay Myers paid LCC an unexpected visit. Myers spoke to a small crowd of students about several topics, including eighteen to twenty-one year voters registering as independents, election reapportionment and Oregon's new laws about campaign spending.

Myers told the group that the many new voters, registering as independents, were ineligible to vote for primary elections. He pointed out that even if one were registered to a certain party he could still vote anyway he wanted to in the "real" election.

Myers was asked if he thought a census should be taken every five years instead of the usual ten because of today's highly mobilized American. He replied that this is necessary for reapportionment. He showed maps of various counties and voting districts and then explained the problems that were presently being encountered. Myers also informed the group of a new campaign law. Each candidate must list each donor and how much was donated to a campaign. Failure to do so could mean the withholding of the election certificate or even prosecution.

FATHER JAMES DIERINGER, A CATHOLIC, IS now LCC's chaplain. A native Oregonian, he is the only full-time chaplain assigned to a community college in this state. He is available to students of any faith, and may be temporarily contacted through the Student Activities Director's office in the Center Building.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Potential vs. reality

There was a section meeting of the Oregon Community College Student Association (OCCSA) Oct. 10, at Umpqua Community College.

A section meeting involves the voting delegation of each community college, usually the student body president, the OCCSA campus coordinator, and one other voting delegate. LCC was not represented by its president, but Ron Davis, Second Vice-President, was his appointed representative.

The section meeting opened with a presidents' meeting. We can't tell you what happened in that meeting; Ron Davis and a TORCH reporter were not allowed to attend.

While using normal OCCSA functions as an indicator, it could be argued that probably not much happened in the meeting, the fact remains that LCC's duly appointed delegate was denied access to it. The TORCH reporter was also denied access. Though OCCSA has, in the past, indulged in some things which the faint hearted might term scandalous, nothing prior to this has been so shrouded in secrecy.

In the regular section meeting, much time was spent in a discussion regarding plans for the upcoming OCCSA fall convention which is to be held at Treasure Valley, and which will cost the LCC student body approximately $700. Two of those items discussed were a beauty contest, the winner to be picked at the convention, and a chucker hunt for those delegates who wish to indulge. Along the same line, was a proposal to spend approximately $3,500 for a float in the Portland Rose Festival. These proposals were returned to committee for further study. This is the sort of thing which is wrong with OCCSA. Portland Community College Student Body President, Milt Dennis, said PCC would withdraw from OCCSA if these problems weren't resolved during the fall convention. Dennis termed OCCSA "A parasitic expense."

Last year the Student Senate spent about $2,700 on OCCSA conventions, travel to section meetings, dues, and other related items. The net gain for LCC was very, very close to nothing. The same pattern exists for the several years previous to this.

When proponents of OCCSA are loquacious about its virtues, they mention potential. No one is denying that OCCSA is rich in potential. The question is, how long can we wait for potential to become reality. So far it hasn't happened, and it's not yet in sight.

We are, however, going to wait one more year, and it doesn't look to be any cheaper than the last one.

Working within the system

The State Board of Education has released a rather heinous document entitled "4550-Board Policy on Student Voluntary Associations."

The document states that all legally constituted organizations affiliated with community colleges must obtain money through voluntary contributions.

This document goes on to say that "Funds collected under the above guideline shall not be used for litigation, partisan or political causes or supporting lobbyist efforts."

The meaning is clear, it is impossible to work through the legislature to effect any change on behalf of students. It goes even further. In one Jack Booted step, every single student organization has been rendered mute. This means that groups who have been diligently working toward meaningful change can now do nothing more than give dances. If this policy is implemented, Oregon Student Public Interest Research Group (OSPIRG) dies for example. If this policy is implemented, Oregon Community College Student Association (OCCSA) has to stop thinking about accreditation, and community involvement, and start asking for bigger parking lots. It means that minority involvement groups, such as Black Student Union, Chicano Student Union, Women's Liberation, and the Native American Union, have effectively just been legislated out of existence.

This policy comes from the same people who, like so many bleating sheep, bemoan us to "work within the system."

Working within the system has just been declared illegal.

Meaning in struggle

by Malcolm Boyd

(Ordained to the ministry of the Episcopal Church in 1955, Malcolm Boyd served as chaplain at Colorado State University from 1959 to 1961, and Wayne State University from 1961 to 1965. In 1965, he became the national field representative of the Episcopal Society for Cultural and Racial Unity, and since 1968 he has been a resident fellow at Calhoun College of Yale University. Former president of the TV Producers Association and a motion picture reviewer for the Christian Century, Mr. Boyd has written such books as Crisis in Communication (1957), Are You Running With Me Jesus? (1968), Free to Live, Free to Die (1969), and As I Live and Breathe (1969).

On a midwestern campus recently a white male student told me: "I have no sense at all of who I really am. What is my identity? Blacks are together. Now women are defining their reality. But I feel lost."

Nina Simone sang "To Be Young, Gifted, and Black" to black students in Atlanta. The moment burst with exuberance, creative energy and hope. I wonder what can be sung, said, or exemplified to many other students who are momentarily trapped in frustration or even despair. "We Are Ourselves, Gifted, and Human" might be a start.

I share fully in the personal anxiety that inevitably accompanies this moment in history with its political action and reaction, existential dilemmas and radical spiritual questioning. These are simply a few guidelines to my present philosophy of life.

I want to be an organic part of social responsibility and community building. Yet I also want to nurture my individuality - even at the risk of being considered eccentric.

I want to weigh myself in the scales of liberation movements - Black, Native American, Women, Gay, Chicano and others - and hopefully come up with human identity. Yet I do not want to live in a melting pot that denies deep and honest differences between people.

I want to be sufficiently sober and serious about the overwhelming questions of this day, this age: poverty, emptiness, ecology, identity, racism, loneliness in a mass, war. Yet I do not want to lose my sense of humor, capacity for sheer abandon and fun, and awareness of the absurd as a quality of life.

I want to nurture protest and lend fire to dissent. Without them a democracy perishes. Yet I want to avoid slipping into paranoia, destruction for its own sake, and the morbid malaise of hopelessness.

I want to build an intellectual spirit interlaced by commitment and capable of passion. Yet I do not want to succumb to the arrogance of mere fashion by denigrating authentic tradition, academic discipline and the goal of objectivity.

I want to respond to ideas instead of charismatic personalities whose programmed chic (for whatever cause) is the product of exploitation.

I want to believe sincerely in the aspects of faith that undergird my life, yet also want to resist narrow chauvinism and self-righteous fanaticism that claims mine is the "only" faith or ideology, life-style or system. I want to fight the conviction that "we" (people who share my views and I) are "good guys" versus "bad guys" (people who hold different views).

I want to be a loyal and dependable (therefore always critical) member of movements and organizations to which I belong, yet do not want to forget that moral ambiguities mark all movements and institutions (including mine).

I want to participate in community with persons who share my views, yet do not want to lose the capacity for listening to totally different views and engaging in communication with people who hold them.

I want to be outspoken against the maladies and sins of my society, nation and institutions, yet do not want to become merely a shrill crier of doom who offers no alternatives, decent hope for change, or positive approaches to hard and complex tasks.

It is therefore obvious that I choose to live in creative tension. I do not want to shut other people out of my life, avoid shattering human experiences and relationships, or reject the growth processes of becoming fully human. The alternative is, I believe, dehumanization. Success and failure are meaningless terms to me. The meaning of life I find in its struggle.

The innocent bystander

by Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Once upon a time there was an Old King who had a thousand children. As kings go, he was a pretty good Old King, gentle and kind and thoughtful. But he had one, tiny, little flaw -- he couldn't stand children.

In fact, the Old King couldn't even abide the sight of children. Particularly his own. He found them noisy, undependable and downright immature. When he saw one of them coming, he frowned and crossed the street.

Of course, he always said in public how much he loved his children and how much he was going to do for them. Some day. He even invited them to cocktail parties at his Royal Palace every blue moon or so -- one at a time.

Naturally, the children knew they were unloved and unwanted. Most had to struggle to survive each passing day. So they grew up disinherited and disenfranchised. And, naturally, their behavior was none too good.

Naturally, they stole hubcaps and snatched purses and sometimes even hit people on the head. Naturally, this made the Old King's decent, law-abiding subjects indignant. "Really!" they said. "You must do something to correct the behavior of your children. They're an awful nuisance."

Well, the Old King groaned, rubbed his head, took two aspirin and finally announced: "In order to make better human beings of my children, I am going to build a Royal Correctional Facility for Behavioral Improvement."

Everybody said this was a swell idea.

So the King hired a Minister of Corrections and told him to build a Correctional Facility in the Palace basement where it would be sort of out of sight. "But build it cheap," said the Old King. "I'm not made of money."

So the Minister bought a thousand steel-cages of the smallest possible size and hired a hundred Correctional Officers at the lowest possible salaries and gave them each a club for correcting purposes.

When all was ready, the Old King called in his children. "Look," he said, not looking at them, "as a father it's my duty to correct your behavior. Each of you will kindly get into one of those cages until your behavior improves. It's for your own good."

Privately, the King was a touch disturbed by his decision. "But after all," he said to himself, "what else could I do?" And he tried to forget the whole thing.

Oddly enough, however, the behavior of his children didn't improve a whit in the cages. In fact, it got worse. And pretty soon, the children were banging on the bars, demanding to be let out.

Their clamor angered the Old King. "How can I let you out," he asked irately, "when your behavior's grown worse?" And he doused them brutally with a fire hose until they shut up -- for their own good.

Even so, the longer they were kept in their cages, the more impossible their behavior became. Finally, they got loose one day and ran around the basement, biting guards and making nasty threats of what they'd do if they weren't let out.

It was more than the Old King could endure. "The ungrateful wretches," he cried, "are behaving like animals!" And hardening his heart, he corrected them all permanently by shooting them all dead -- plus, unfortunately, a couple of dozen correctional officers who got in the way.

The Old King apologized profusely for his marksmanship, but not for his decision. "After all," he said, "seeing that even my vast Royal Correctional Facility couldn't improve their behavior, what else could I do?" (Copyright Chronicle Publishing Co. 1971)

Brother/Sister program begins third year in area

"Isn't it time you were important to someone besides yourself for a change?"

Does this sound familiar? Have you heard it before? If you've been listening to some of our local radio stations, you'll know that they're talking about the Big Brother-Big Sister Program which has just begun its third year here in this area.

According to Kathy Fea, who helps coordinate the program at LCC, "It's a program set up between Dist. 4J and the target schools in the Eugene area which provides children from low-income and one-parent families opportunities to experience things which are usually out of their reach either financially or from lack of guidance.

The program is designed to give these children a friend who will act as a big brother or big sister to them and to many of these children their big brother or big sister is very special.

One little girl in the program, who was asked by a friend what a big sister was, responded, "Someone who will play with you anytime you want." But that's not all there is to it.

Bob Lee, over-all coordinator of the program in Dist. 4J, notes that "It takes very little to please most children. Just to meet them after school, or go out for a Coke proves to them that they are important to you, and that someone really cares."

The program also includes organized group activities, including annual Coast trips, snow trips, and Christmas parties.

So far LCC does not have a great number of volunteers in the program, according to Miss Fea, but she hopes to see more "people taking interest in giving a little happiness to some of the little people in our community."

'Push-button' news made available by LCC library

"Push-button" information drawn from 155 newspapers, is now available in the LCC Library.

According to librarian Del Mathison, Newsbank Urban Affairs Library has produced a method for making research less time-consuming. The system contains a file of micro film cards indexed by specified subject and number. To locate articles on education, ecology, traffic, or any other subject, a person simply needs to check the printed index, locate the proper micro-filmed card in the file box, and put it in the viewer. Each 4x7 card contains forty newspaper articles drawn from both "over-ground" and "underground" papers.

Copies of the microfilmed material are produced within seconds for a ten cent charge.

SAC NEWS

Tutoring

A new, and hopefully successful, tutoring program is starting at LCC. But in order for this program to be useful everyone needs to get everyone involved. Tutors, as well as students who need the service, are necessary.

This is the way the program works: tutors and students work with and for each other in a one-to-one relationship. There are no set qualifications for either party involved other than the fact that everyone is "special." If a student doesn't need to be tutored, then he should help someone else. For this tutoring program to be successful, everyone should get together and get involved.

For more information contact Paddy Reid at the Student Awareness Center on campus, or call 747-4501 Ext. 300.

Remember - students need each other.

Drugs

From a visual stand-point, it would appear that LCC does not have a real and evident drug problem, at least for the time being. However, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and with this in mind the Student Awareness Center would like to make students aware of the facilities available on and off campus.

People for People, located in Center 234, is open from 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Thursdays and holds open rap sessions on Tuesdays in Center 419 between 11:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. each week. Students interested in attending one of the rap sessions or wanting private counseling should see Tom Byrd, coordinator of People for People, during the hours listed, or contact Jack Daniels in the Student Awareness Center, Center 235.

Both of these locations offer private counseling, rap sessions, educational films and speakers, hand-out literature, off campus referral service, a bumper squad for bad trips and overdose situations, and total assurance that any or all information given to these people will be kept strictly confidential.

Residents of Eugene and the surrounding area were treated to the Renaissance Faire, held in a wooded area fourteen miles northwest of Eugene, Oct. 8 through 10.

Visitors to the Faire saw hand-crafted items ranging from jewelry, clothing, and leather goods, to copper kitchenware and hand-pressed apple cider. Friday and Saturday, beautiful weather brought hundreds of eager customers, window shoppers, and people merely seeking a good time. Sunday's scattered light rains kept the crowd at a minimum.

Titans second at OSU meet

Oct. 12 TORCH Page 7

Lane Community College finished second in a cross country meet at Corvallis Saturday, October 9. Lane picked up 33 points while the overall winner, Oregon State's Rooks, had 32 points.

Four Titan runners finished in the top ten and Lane's top six men were within 25 seconds of each other.

Finishing fourth was Bill Cram (the September athlete of the month, see story page 2) with a time of 21:10:00; sixth was Randy Griffith with a time of 21:20:00. Griffith is from Triangle Lake and is a freshman at Lane. Last year he placed second in the 'A' Cross Country Championships and in track was first in the mile.

Seventh was Dale Hammitt, finishing in 21:24:00. Hammitt is also a freshman, and comes from Pleasant Hill. He was the 'A' Cross Country Champion and in track he was the mile champion.

Dan Van Camp placed ninth, timing in at 21:31:00. Van Camp is a sophomore from Dallas. Last year he was the Oregon Community College Mile Champion and was second in the OCC Cross Country Championships.

Eleventh was Bruce Davison who, until the meet, has been in the top five all season. He is from Churchill and a sophomore at Lane. His time was 21:35:00.

Finishing twelfth was Dennis Hilliard from Sheldon. Hilliard last year was the OCC Half Mile Champion, the Region 18 Two Mile Champion. His time was 21:35:00.

Mike Monaghan, a freshman at Lane, finished sixteenth, timing in at 21:53:00. Monaghan ran for North Eugene last year.

Coach Al Tarpenning, commenting on the team, said "So far during the season we have competed against several Northern California junior colleges and small four year colleges. And we have beaten Mt. Hood twice although they are in the Northwest Conference. From this indication LCC fields one of the best cross country teams in the Pacific Northwest."

Lane's next meet will be held here against Clackamas, Mt. Hood Community College, and the Oregon Track Club.

Torch names Cram athlete of the month

by John Thompson

The TORCH sports staff has chosen Bill Cram as Lane's September Athlete of the month.

Cram is an outstanding young athlete in the Cross Country Wars.

Al Tarpenning has recruited some fine athletes at Lane, and Bill Cram is one of them. In two meets Cram has finished first and second. In the George Fox Invitational, which was a four mile run, he placed ninth among many of the nation's best, including many four year college men.

Cram had some fine accomplishments at Madras High School, where he placed as runner-up in the Cross Country Championships his senior year. Sparked by Cram, Madras won the Double-A Cross Country Championship two years running. At Madras High, he also played forward on the varsity basketball team and some football.

Cram stated "I decided to attend Lane because of a better scholarship and work-study program. I was impressed with Lane and Coach Tarpenning was a big help to me." Cram is presently enrolled in general studies, and plans to attend Oregon State University upon finishing here.

Tarpenning has had some outstanding success this year at Lane, and this is not really surprising to those who know him. At Centennial High School in 1967, his team won the Oregon State High School A-1 Track & Field Championship.

In the second meet in California this year in a four mile run, Lane had the top four finishers. First was Dennis Hilliard with a 22:37 time. Cram second at 22:37; Dan Van Kamp third at 22:43; Dale Hammitt fourth at 22:49, and fifth for Lane, but sixth in the meet was Randy Griffith with a time of 22:51.

In the Chico State Cross Country Invitational, a five-mile run, Cram was first with a time of 26:17.7. In order the other finishers for Lane were: Third Griffith with 26:35; Eighth Van Kamp with 27:10; Ninth Hammitt with 27:38; 11th Bruce Davison with 28:00; 12th Hilliard with 28:11, and Mike Monaghan was 13th with a 28:18 reading.

Tarpenning is very optimistic regarding the remainder of the season. He feels he has some fine young men competing for him. This is obvious by the results shown this year.

Sports Briefs

Field Hockey

Women's field hockey officially began Oct. 4 in preparation for the first game with the University of Oregon at South Eugene High School field Oct. 13.

The team has only three returning players but, according to women's coach Delpha Daggett, the girls she does have are working hard and should do well this year in competition.

Women students interested in field hockey should see Miss Daggett in the Health and P.E. Office.

Wrestling

Wrestling work-outs began last week for the Titan's first match scheduled for the first week in January.

Wrestling coach Bob Creed said the reason for such early practice sessions is to have the best team available for the season. Creed wants a well conditioned and experienced squad when wrestling does finally get under way.

Work-outs are held from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. daily in the weight room of the physical education complex under the main gym.

Creed is looking for talent this year to compete in all weight divisions. Interested students should contact Bob Creed in the Health and Physical Education office or phone ext. 277.

Intramurals to organize

Men interested in playing flag football or three-man basketball should sign up for intramural teams which are now being organized.

Sign up sheets are located in the men's locker room and in the intramural section of the Health and Physical Education Office.

Referees are also needed for these activities.

A new Co-Ed activity is scheduled this year for men and women who enjoy "horsing" around. Students should stampede to sign up for the exciting game of horse shoes.
