Browne raps petitions

OAKRIDGE — Special interest groups will declare open season on Oregon's initiative and referendum unless Attorney General Lee Johnson enforces the state election laws more vigorously, State Senate Betty Browne, D-Oakridge, has warned.

The tobacco interests' success in referring the five-cent cigarette tax to the November 1972 ballot with alleged illegally obtained signatures indicates that "If you have enough money, you can buy your way on to the Oregon ballot," Senator Browne said. She called on the attorney general to reconsider his decision and "return the initiative and referendum to its proper place—under the control of the people of Oregon."

The senator spoke at a meeting of the Oregon Dental Hygienists' Association in Albany, Oct. 2-3, and expanded her remarks in a press statement Monday.

Attorney General Johnson has announced that he would not contest the validity of signatures gathered on cigarette tax referendum petitions, although it has been alleged that some of the signatures were obtained by paid solicitors, a practice prohibited by Oregon law.

Three men have been charged in Multnomah County with paying solicitors, mainly teenagers, to collect signatures. If convicted, they can be fined no more than $100.00.

In addition to the illegally obtained signatures, Senator Browne said, she had been informed by a reliable source that obscenities had been scrawled across some of the petitions.

"Attorney General Johnson has said that the referendum is a sacred right of the people, and I quite agree," Senator Browne said. "It is for this very reason that I do not believe that out-of-state special interest groups, such as the tobacco industry, should gain access to the ballot through illegal means, — and that petitions marred with obscenities should be accepted."

"Oregon election laws were framed to prevent, or at least make it very difficult, for small groups with selfish interests and a great deal of money at their disposal to buy their way on to the ballot. Even if fines should be increased, I doubt that this will deter them, once they find out that the petitions will not be challenged and they will be allowed to achieve their goals illegally."

Senator Browne stressed that she believed most of the people who signed the petitions did so sincerely and with no knowledge of the illegal activity, and under Oregon law, the people had an unchallenged right to refer a taxation measure, as long as it was done legally.

She said that her protest over the matter had nothing to do with the merit or lack of merit of the cigarette tax.

"I would feel the same way about any initiative or referendum measure which was placed on the ballot illegally," she said.

She noted that although she does not approve of "the patchwork approach to taxation," she voted reluctantly for the cigarette tax in the last legislative session, "because it was obvious that this was the only tax measure which the Republican-controlled House of Representatives was going to allow to pass. We needed the money if we were going to be able to implement our plan to give significant property tax relief to a third of Oregon's homeowners."

The filing of the referendum will deprive the state of $18 million in cigarette-tax revenue that was to be used for this purpose, she said.

LCC student dies in crash

One LCC student was killed and another critically injured in a head-on collision just south of Waldport on U.S. 101 Oct. 14.

Claudia Traglio, a distinguished student, majoring in foreign languages, died as a result of injuries sustained in the collision. Lois L. Schmidt, an elementary education major, was listed in critical condition at Good Samaritan Hospital in Corvallis.

Miss Traglio was the student body secretary and a graduate of Willamette High class of 1970. A participant in the foreign exchange program at Willamette High, she was also Thespian of the Year at Willamette in 1970. She was a member of Phi Theta Kappa honor society at LCC.

A memorial trust fund has been established in her name through the Student Exchange program at Willamette High School.

2nd VP resigns, Treasurer fired

At the Student Senate meeting on Thursday, October 10, three new executive cabinet officers were named.

Jay Boulton was appointed to serve out the unexpired term of Ron Davis, former 2nd vice-president. Davis resigned at the end of the meeting. David Red Fox was named as Acting Treasurer. He will serve until the fall election. Mel Woods was named to the post of Publicity Director; Mark Parrish resigned this post in last week's senate meeting.

The senate voted to ask for Cherrie McMurray's resignation. The former Treasurer's resignation was called for due to her "absenteeism", and because she "hasn't been present in school."

Jay Boulton's appointment as second vice-president was confirmed with the stipulation that he resign his position as chairman of the Minority Coalition. Boulton was present at the National Student Association convention in Ft. Collins, Colorado this summer.

The senate approved expenditures totalling $2695.75. Included were: $618.75 for the fall convention of the OCCSA, $1000 for the dental care program, $500 for the emergency loan fund, $500 for the Student Awareness Center, and $75 for the Chicano Student Union.

The $618.75 for the convention will cover expenses for 12 delegates to the convention. The convention is to be held in Ontario, Oregon, at Treasure Valley Community College.

The senate also voted to hire a work-study secretary who is to work directly for the student body president. This will cost approximately $15 - $20 per month.

The Fall Election will be held during the eighth week of classes. The senate is now accepting petitions for the vacant seats. The only seats not vacant are those of the Senators at Large, and three sophomore senate seats. Each department has one freshman and one sophomore seat. The petitions will be accepted until Nov. 3. To be valid, each petition must be signed by 100 students. After obtaining 100 signatures on a petition, the petitioner's name will be entered on the ballot for the applicable position.

A constitutional committee is presently drawing up new by-laws under which the fall election will be conducted. This is to forestall the problems which have plagued previous elections.

Lane sponsors nurses' workshop

A three-week workshop for working professional nurses interested in developing supervisory and administrative skills will be repeated at LCC beginning Oct. 20.

The course, limited to 20 students is funded through a federal grant and therefore requires no tuition.

Six workshop sessions are planned. Beginning Oct. 20, classes will meet Wednesdays from 3 to 9 p.m. and Fridays from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

To be eligible for the workshop, a nurse must have a minimum of two year's nursing work experience following graduation and must be employed at the present time as director, assistant director, supervisor, senior nurse, inservice educator, coordinator, head nurse or charge nurse.

The workshop will be directed by Sister Charlene Bartlett of Sacred Heart Hospital and Mary Fiorentino, LCC director of nursing.

Persons wishing to apply or seeking more information should contact the Nursing Department at LCC.

Correction

Last week's issue of the TORCH carried a front page article about Oregon State Board of Education policy 4540.

The article stated that the "policy would apply only in cases where funding is received from sources other than voluntary donors."

It should have stated that the policy would apply when the funds ARE obtained through voluntary contributions.

OSPIRG seeks help

LCC's branch of Oregon Student Public Interest Research Group (OSPIRG) is presently in need of student leaders. New leaders would act as local board directors and would serve as representatives to the state organization.

OSPIRG is a research organization created and supported by students, specializing in problems and abuses of consumer and environmental protection -- issues which affect every member of the public.

Students interested in learning more about the functioning of OSPIRG, or in the opportunities for service, should contact Cheryl Burgess at the Student Senate office, second floor Center Building, or call LCC ext. 221 or 343-3390.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Nixon no friend to free expression

The government contingent of President Nixon's toadies is constantly nurturing the notion that freedom must always be accompanied by 'responsibility'. This idea doesn't seem to be such a bad one, until you look at their definition of 'responsibility'. That is, as long as one does not avail oneself of freedom of speech, nor freedom of the press, nor freedom to be different than Richard Nixon, one gets to be a good guy.

We won't go into the tedious examples of all the fledgling despots who have attempted to stifle free expression. But when the President of the United States attempts to prevent newspapers from printing the truth, people are likely to start drawing parallels of their own.

Nixon, of course, has long been infamous for blasting the press. He saddled the press with the blame for his loss to John Kennedy in 1960, and for his loss to Pat Brown in the California gubernatorial race in 1962. That sort of thing is not, of course, very ego-satisfying. However, one would imagine that Nixon's spirits must have soared when he was able to operate a news blackout during his ill-fated invasion of Laos and Cambodia. But, it was back to losing when the Pentagon Papers were released. And, although he was able to temporarily stop the New York Times with Mitchell-fabricated court injunctions, other newspapers rallied to the cause, and Nixon found himself on the losing end, once again.

Nixon, like any executive, must delegate some of this to assistants, and one can only say that he has some people really capable of this sort of thing in Spiro Agnew, and John Mitchell. He scored a real bargain in that Mitchell's wife, Martha, is just as well qualified as the others, and he doesn't have to pay her anything.

Anyone who tells us that the only lawful freedom of speech lies in denouncing 'communists' is dangerous.

And the man who gave us a systematic extermination of the Black Panther Party is to fill at least four Supreme Court seats.

There is no need to reiterate that free expression is under attack from almost all quarters. It's not necessary to say that Nixon is not the only attacker. However, since Nixon is appointing no less than four Supreme Court Justices, he must be counted as the one with the greatest opportunity to destroy free expression.

The innocent bystander

On being afraid

by Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

It was a lovely summer day, white clouds scudding in a blue sky. Coming toward me on the sidewalk were two young men, one short and moustached, the other tall and wearing dark glasses. And I was afraid.

I felt the ugly fear rising in me while they were still half a block away -- the ugly fear that becomes more familiar with each passing day. As always, the fear was impersonal. I had never seen either one of them before. Our lives had never touched.

I was afraid simply because they were young and poor and black.

They walked the way more and more young blacks from the ghettos seem to walk these days: with a certain cool defiance and (perhaps I imagine it) a secret pleasure in the knowledge of my fear.

And, make no mistake, I feared them. I fear all who are young and poor and black and walk that way. We were still 50 yards apart. I thought of crossing the street. The traffic was too heavy. I hated the fear that grew within me.

It wasn't always that way. I thought back on how it used to be. Was it only ten years ago? We worked together then. We marched together then. We sang, "We Shall Overcome" together and listened to Martin Luther King together and talked together over endless cups of coffee of how the day would soon come when the color of a man's skin would no longer matter. That's how it was then -- ten short years ago.

And now my stomach churned with fear.

Ten years ago we were slowly closing the gap. Remember? We were slowly getting civil rights laws passed. We were slowly integrating neighborhoods, slowing achieving equality of opportunity. All too slowly. And now the gap that was closing then has somehow widened into a fearful chasm.

Now the militant young black leaders talk not of brotherhood and love, but of killing the pigs and offing the honkies. So pigs are being killed and honkies offed. Nor do they talk to us. No, we no longer work or march or sing or listen or talk together.

I like to think I understand a little of what these young blacks feel. Every man needs something from his fellows. And if he can win neither their love, their respect nor their admiration because the game is stacked against him, he will gladly settle for their fear.

As these two young blacks drew closer, I thought I understood something else. I thought I understood the fear a young black must have felt in the South when the Ku Klux Klan was riding high. And my black friends (they are all too few now) might well say there is a justice in my reaping what my fathers sowed. Maybe so.

They were close now. Suddenly, I realized that I not only hated my fear, I hated them for making me afraid, for making me less of a man. So now it is their turn to sow fear. But soon it will be their turn to reap hatred, for we come to hate what we fear. And then it will be our turn to sow fear once again.

At that moment, I knew what I should do. I should look up into their eyes and smile -- smile with the love and respect and admiration we human beings should have for each other. I didn't. I didn't because I was afraid.

* * *

So we passed, I looking down, they... I don't know if they even looked at me. Perhaps. Perhaps not.

As always, once the immediate danger was gone, the immediate fear eased. But now, having thought back over the years that have passed, a new kind of fear grows within me. It is a fear for the years to come.

CWE program
in second year

Last year LCC started a new program which involved students in vocational fields working at jobs connected with their major, and letting them receive credit for their work along with the pay from their employer. This program is called Cooperative Work Experience (CWE).

Bob Way, coordinator of CWE, said the six hundred students who have participated in the program noted that their grades were notably higher than before the work experience. In talking to the individual students, Way found they felt studying was much easier because they could note the comparison between classroom logic and actual working conditions. He also noted that questions were being brought from work and asked in class. By doing this, many topics which normally were not discussed in class were talked about with all students learning from each other's experiences.

A student working through CWE while attending LCC, may find it easier to get a job when he has completed his schooling because he will have experience and a record of his experience for future employers.

Students interested in participating in CWE should contact their department coordinator or Bob Way, ext.363.

Election date set

Elections for freshman and sophomore senate positions are scheduled for the eighth week of Fall Term, ASUC First Vice-President Bob Gilbreath announced Friday.

Gilbreath stated that the deadline for the petition lists will be Tuesday, Nov. 2 -- a full two weeks during which interested candidates must collect 100 signatures for eligibility. Gilbreath also stated that petitions submitted last spring will not be recognized for the Fall Term election.

THE FORUM

Departing denouncement

(Editor's Note: Last week Ron Davis resigned from the position of ASLCC Second Vice-President to return to his home state of Arizona. The following is his account of summer activities here at LCC. The TORCH welcomes any rebutals or comments, either in the form of "Letters to the Editor" or articles for this column.)

by Ron Davis

My resignation was brought about by many things. In order to justify my quitting the job, I feel I should at least give a few facts and possible figures to the students here at Lane.

During the summer months the student-body was not very well represented in any aspect of the college, due to the President of the S. B. being absent. Having more of what he determined higher obligations, the students were left holding almost nothing.

During these times I sent two letters to the Student Body President and First Vice-President requesting them to at least show up once in awhile. At this time I was informed by one Senator-at-Large that it was summer and Mr. Barbarossa did not have to work for his $125.00 per month.

I was advised by Mr. J. Mermis, Senator-at-Large, Mr. B. Gilbreath, First Vice-President, and Mr. Barbarossa that only fools like me (Ron Davis) work hard for the students--without any pay. I was elected to the office and I hope I at least fulfilled some of the expectations of the people who voted for me.

About this time I found out that Mr. Barbarossa was receiving $75.00 per college for the Minority Coalition of which he was chairman. This was funded through OCCSA (Oregon Community College Student Association) and Mr. Barbarossa could have earned $2,200 from June 15 to Sept. 15, or thereabouts. This was supposed to pay for all his expenses. At the same time, he was having the Student Senate pay his gas bill. This means that he was getting paid twice for the same job. The first bill was for $24.00 and the second one was for $34.00. When this last bill was presented to me, I questioned it and was chewed out by the First Vice-President because "it was none of my business," and also by Mr. Barbarossa because I was not supposed to be a watch dog.

Again, I'll have to refer to the Student Body President. On Sept. 15 I was asked why the Student Senate phone bill was so high (about $150.00). After viewing the phone bill, I found

Dear Editor:

Why doesn't this school have convocations (public speakers, musical shows, etc.). Clark College in Vancouver, Washington has an enrollment that is substantially lower than LCC, but manages to have convocations once a week.

At Clark, classes on Wednesdays were shortened by ten minutes so that a 'free hour' was reserved at 10:00 am for whatever event was scheduled for that week.

I would like to hear comments on this possibility.

Lane students & staff set United Appeal goal

A total of $3,100 in United Appeal contributions will be asked for LCC staff members and students in the next few weeks. Explanatory materials and pledge cards are being distributed to employees through department chairmen.

"We made our goal of $3000 last year for the first time in the college's history," said President Eldon Schafer. "I have confidence that we can do the job again this year."

Lyle Swetland, LCC Development Fund director, will head the campaign for the second consecutive year. He said the drive will run through Nov. 19, however, staff members may have pledges deducted from paychecks or pay in monthly cash installments over a period of up to six months.

Funds collected will help 46 agencies perform services in the public interest. Among local agencies sharing the monies will be Boy and Girl Scouts, YMCA-YWCA, Buckley House, Red Cross, Catholic Charities, Eugene Hearing and Speech Center, Family Counseling Service, Association for Retarded Children, Mental Health Center, Pearl Buck Center, and the Salvation Army.

Suggested goals for individual giving are one hour's pay per month, or one percent of annual income. Students are urged to contribute whatever they feel they can spare.

"LCC people are continually demonstrating their desire to be of help to others," Dr. Schafer said. "United Appeal offers an opportunity to demonstrate gratitude for the ability to give and a recognition of our mutual responsibility for supporting services which are essential and a benefit to all. Let's give with a sense of personal pride."

Lab theatre planned

"We are anxious to get started, as we're at a critical stage for space. We have 750 students and we're in bad shape..." noted Ed Ragozzino, head of LCC's Performing Arts Department. The topic was the planned laboratory theatre soon to be constructed on the LCC campus.

A major problem involved has been complaints by some members of the public that the LCC theatre will be a duplication of facilities planned for downtown Eugene.

Concerning this, Ragozzino states, "most important, and I want to emphasize, it (the lab. theatre) is designed as an educational laboratory for performing arts students; it is not an auditorium, it's a classroom where we do our teaching."

A joint meeting of the Eugene

Auditorium Association and the LCC Board of Education (a public meeting) will be held on Oct. 27 to review this supposed duplication.

According to Ragozzino, the new facility may be ready for use by the middle of Fall Term next year."

Board opposes policy 4540

by Tony Rogers

The LCC Board of Education voted, Oct. 13, to oppose State Board of Education policy 4540.

Student Body President, Omar Barbarossa, brought the issue to the floor, stating the bill was a "vivid example of the local parents' attitude." He further stated that students have been encouraged to "be involved," that this policy would "restrict usage of funds, even those obtained through voluntary contributions." "If they do this to the students," he said, "...students will have been shut out of the entire legislative process. . . our Board should take a definite stand."

Commenting on the policy, Board member Robert Ackerman said, "what have they, (State Board of Education) got to hide... they must be very insecure." Then in a statement which seemed to describe the feeling of the entire board, Ackerman said "nothing should prohibit students from working within the system." At this point, the board voted unanimously to inform the State Board of Education of their opposition to the policy.

The Board also voted approval on a proposal to join the Co-operative Cablecasting Council. This would allow LCC to air television programs, not only through the Teleprompter cable system, but through other systems, such as Liberty TV in Junction City, through the use of video tapes.

Sent to the Curriculum Committee was a proposal brought to the Board by Irvin Fletcher, secretary-treasurer of the Lane County Labor Council. The proposal asks for the implementation of a Labor Studies Program. The program is to be a daytime, full credit, three term sequential course, open to all students. The first term is to be historically oriented, and will cover the founding and progress of the labor movement in America. Sociological aspects of the labor movement will be covered during the second term. This section will concern itself with such topics as racism and alienation. The third term will be "labor/management issue oriented." It will cover such things as, the "Philadelphia Plan," compulsory arbitration, and "right to work" laws. Fletcher repeatedly emphasized that the course was "not designed as propaganda tool for organized labor." He said "we feel organized labor can stand the light of research."

Dollars and Sense

by Paul Nathan

In light of the administrations wage and price controls, consider the following: "Fascism, in its economic aspects, is a plan by which the institution of private property and the private production of goods and services is retained but is made subject to extensive control by government, particularly as respects management and new capital expansion. Under fascism, moreover, labor loses its freedom to organize and bargain collectively, these activities falling under the direct control of the state." (Dictionary of Economics)

This definition of Fascism indicates the distinctive characteristic of this kind of political system is the transference of control of property in private hands.

In effect, Fascism states that a person can own a product (or a business), but the state will dictate what he can or cannot do with it. Or, from the point of view of labor, a man can work, but the state will dictate the price at which he works.

Capitalism is the diametrical opposite of fascism. Capitalism is "an economic system based upon the private ownership of all kinds of property and the freedom of the individual to contract with others and to engage in economic activities of his choice and for his own profit and well-being." (Dict. of Economics)

Just as a free marketplace of ideas is indispensable to a free society so is the free marketplace of goods and services. Both must be free from censorship in order to preserve the moral right of individuals to act in accordance with their individual values and judgments.

The preservation of a free market recognizes that men must be free to trade with one another voluntarily, dealing only when the terms of a trade are agreeable to all parties.

A price is an agreement. It is the point where the self-interest of all parties intersect. The prices that result from free trade are the economic expressions of the value and decisions of free men. This is what supply and demand means in a free market.

The United States no longer has a free market. Prices are no longer determined by the values of individuals, but by the state.

With no condemnation from most politicians or the press, President Nixon wiped out what was left of the free market and transformed this country from a semi-capitalistic system to a semi-fascist system. And worse, for the first time in memorable history, both parties approved.

It would seem that on the issue of economic policy the U.S. is to have a one party system. This would not seem bad, and it would not be bad, if the policy were right. But almost all politicians, including President Nixon, agree that wage and price controls don't work and are inconsistent with a free enterprise system.

It has been alleged that wage and price controls are necessary to stop spiraling inflation. While they may stop rising prices if imposed forever, they do no more than cover up the cause of inflation, thereby postponing its cure.

The cause of inflation is the artificial increase of the money supply by government. The supply of money increased at a greater rate during the last six months than it had for over 25 years. The effect of this (more dollars circulating and pursuing basically the same amount of goods) would eventually bid prices up.

Because it takes time (6-12 months) for money to filter into the economy and affect prices, the government hasn't had a great inflationary problem--yet.

But it was inevitable that every passing month would show the effect of the preceding monetary expansion through higher and higher prices.

To cover up the inevitable exceleration of prices, the government, in effect, put a bureaucratic band-aid over the economy so as not to expose the festering disease they had produced.

But the disease exists.

The only cure is to contract and level the supply of money and return to a gold standard.

Historically, wage and price controls have never worked. They only lead to total control of the economy, and black markets. No government has the power to outlaw natural economic laws; they can only outlaw individual actions--and so they have....

The most important issue today is wage and price controls. If the power of government is not limited, if individuals do not show revulsion at political control and galloping bureaucratic management, if property rights and individual rights are subordinated to the "national interest" without opposition by individuals, then Fascism will be our new system.

The answers to problems do not lie in the extension of government controls. On the contrary, a free society has always coped with problems more effectively. (See West Germany versus East Germany)

The threat now is public approval of government regulation and control as the proper method of dealing with problems. America has come to a crossroads:

Capitalism or Fascism. A decision will be made.

It's not too late to return to a free society, but a stand must be taken. The choice rests with the individuals of America--but, it's crucial to know the nature of that choice.

Freedom or slavery--nothing less is at stake.

a number of personal calls were made by Mr. Barbarossa. When first confronted with this at the Executive Cabinet meeting on the same day, he attempted to cajole his way out of it, but Mrs. Betty Ekstrom, Director of Student Activities, advised him that the calls had been checked and that they were indeed personal calls. Also, it was brought to Mr. Barbarossa's attention that neither he nor J. Bolton (now Second Vice-President) had returned with any receipts (except a few gas receipts totaling $67.39) from the National Student Association convention which was held in Ft. Collins, Colorado. Even after getting together, they could not account for all the monies allotted to them for the trip. About this time, Mr. Barbarossa said that he would pay back all the money. When I asked J. Bolton about this, he said Mr. Barbarossa would also pay his share back. Now, what about the other two candidates who attended NSA? Nothing! They brought back all their receipts and information on the convention.

When I confronted the S. B. President about making out a report, he only told his side of the story. He forgot the Executive Cabinet meeting where he was asked to resign (at least he left out the incriminating parts). This happened on Sept. 15. The S. B. President also did not mention the one on Sept. 29, at which Mr. J. Jones and John West and Ken Hill, three counselors, were present. He did not say that at that time Mr. John West called the Executive Cabinet a bunch of racists -- because we had asked for Mr. Barbarossa's resignation.

Neither did they look into the facts of why we did it. This is the way the first Senate meeting went also. "Don't make waves, you'll rock the boat."

That should be enough on these things. At least it's part of a report for all of you students.

Here's some thoughts for OCCSA. One reason why I'm not going is my personal feeling "that after six years we haven't gotten anything from it." I have participated all summer due to the S. B. President having higher priorities. I have fulfilled his job at all section meetings and Presidents' workshops. Everyone that has participated this summer would like to know where LCC's Student Body President is. Now do you feel that this delegation from LCC will be heard? Even when Mr. Barbarossa shows up at the convention will he know what is going on? Even after making my reports to him, he is still without any influence due to his previous absences.

Absences??? These are the really great assets of Mr. Barbarossa. Not only during the summer, but right at the start of the school year. How do I know? Because I filled in and got caught making a speech. Then again, his absence is noted at the College Cabinet meetings; plus a few others. At the moment I feel that I have elaborated enough on

Mr. Barbarossa. Just check the facts. Also, I would like to have Bill Bauguess to please write up the minutes and discussion that took place at the last three executive cabinet meetings. The tapes that these meetings are on have numerous facts that all the students at Lane should have.

Aid programs listed

The Financial Aids Office at LCC has awarded all of the funds available to them for this year. However, it is possible that there will be cancellations and re-assignments during the year.

Funds are generally available to LCC students through several education grants from the Federal Government.

There are loans for Nursing students. If a student wants an associate degree in Nursing, he may borrow up to $1000 per year at a 5% interest rate per annum. Repayment can be extended over a ten - year period with deferments for as long as he is a student. Ten percent of the total loan amount will be forgiven each year the student works as a full-time nurse, up to 50% of the loan. This is granted by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Through the Law Enforcement Educational Program (LEEP) Loans, the student interested in law enforcement can borrow up to $1800 a year for "direct educational expenses." The principal can be forgiven at a rate of 25% for each year the student is employed full time as a law enforcement official.

National Defense Student Loans with a maximum of $1000 are available to students who qualify at a 3% interest rate. Repayment of these loans begins nine months after a student completes or terminates his education. If a student goes into teaching or the armed forces, the loan is forgiven at a rate of 12% per year up to 50%. According to a recent release from the Oregon Board of Education, repayment rate is $15 per month.

Some Educational Opportunity Grants are available to students who come from disadvantaged backgrounds. These are awards not exceeding $1000 per year which a student received and is not required to repay.

Work-Study Assignments are available to students who need financial assistance to attend college. As the priority needs of lower income students are met the grants can be extended to higher income students.

Oregon State Scholarship Commission (OSSC) Guaranteed Loans are available to students and are lent by local banks. The student may borrow up to $1000 per year. Repayment begins ten months after the student leaves school with a minimum payment of $30 at a 7% interest rate per annum.

All needy students should contact the Financial Aids Office on the second floor of the Center Building and make their needs known.

Welding society offers membership to LCC students

Welding students at LCC now have a welding society, complete with union-type operations. Society membership includes a welding journal that keeps up with the latest developments in the welding field, and free welding vocations pamphlets. Membership fee is $5.00 per year.

Any welding alumnus or student interested in this new society, are asked to see Chet Aubrey, welding instructor, ext. 379, for membership applications.

Light housekeeping for LCC

On the Oregon coast near Florence is Heceta House, a one-time lighthouse keeper's residence, which is currently under a 99 year lease by LCC.

The facilities are used primarily for the benefit of LCC classes or organized groups. They may also be used by groups from elsewhere in the Oregon educational community or nonprofit citizen groups formed because of their interest and concern in environment, conservation, or state history.

Heceta House contains sleeping quarters for twenty persons with additional floor space for sleeping-bags and cots. Groups using the house need only furnish their own food, bedding, and linens, as the house contains cooking facilities, china service, tables, and chairs.

The Office of College Facilities is responsible for the scheduling of the Heceta House which is determined on a first-come, first-served basis.

All organized groups from Lane Community College may use Heceta House free of charge while all outside groups will be charged at a policy rate.

Minorities publish paper

Minority groups are commonplace in today's world, however, their problems and needs are often ignored. To help alleviate this, "Black Talk", a bi-monthly paper, is being published by the Afro-American Institute, a non-profit organization.

The Afro-American Institute was started because both Black and White Eugene citizens saw a need for increased attention to the problems of minority groups. The Institute is striving to bring to the community a better awareness and understanding of minority groups, and to help the white population understand more clearly the struggle of the minority for individual determination, human value and identity.

"Black Talk" attempts to publish factual information about minority groups, famous individuals from that group, and their special problems. The major minority group with which the newspaper deals with, however, is that of the Blacks.

The paper can be purchased in the Student Activities Center, second floor Center Building, in the Black Studies Dept., fourth floor Center Building, or at the U. of O. Rates are 25¢ per copy of $5.00 yearly subscription.

Persons wishing to submit material to the paper should contact Peggy Wakefield at the Student Activities Center, second floor Center Building.

Space is also available in the paper for students wishing to place classified ads. To place your add contact James Wright, 686-9197.

LCC program returns

The radio broadcasting training program at LCC returns this fall to give every broadcasting student the basic training required for employment in a commercial radio broadcast station. Instruction covers program planning, production, studio and control room operation, announcing techniques, and radio advertising.

On - the - air experience is provided at the college's broadcast station, KLCC.

KLCC, at 90.3 on the FM dial, operates 18 hours a day. The facilities at the station include four complete recording studios (two mono and two stereo). There are also facilities for mixing six-channel recording.

The present control room at KLCC-FM was completed in May. Construction was in cooperation with the Electronics Department and the Electronics Maintenance Department.

Among many features of KLCC is "Black Magic Soul", two hours of music and announcement concerning the local black community. "Black Magic Soul" is Oregon's only daily black music program.

Also, on Saturdays, at 1:00 to 4:00 PM, KLCC previews some new albums received during that week.

In addition, KLCC prints a monthly classics schedule for regular listeners of "Album of

Athletic phase-out denied

by Bill Powell

Whatever rumor there was about the phasing out of intercollegiate athletics at LCC is false, according to Dick Newell, Health and P.E. department director. This statement was part of an interview with Bob Radcliff and Dick Newell, who head up the athletic department.

What is happening to the athletic department this year will be an honest and realistic evaluation of the athletic program, brought on by the present budget problems, and the overall need of a realistic picture of athletics at this college. Both Radcliff and Newell are trying to develop a good competitive program around the nucleus of available funds. By doing this some cinching-up and cutting-back will have to be expected.

Since the athletic department is funded partly by the Student Senate and partly by the college, the funds for the athletic department are sometimes altered by both of these parties, and therefore no definite financial base can be established in the athletic department. This one of the items that the athletic department wants to rectify.

The Student Senate, which controls most of the funding of the athletic department, has stated that by allocating funds to the athletic department for those students who wish to turn out for athletics, they have to hand allocate funds for other activities as well in the form of students who do not wish to participate in athletics. By doing this, an equilibrium is maintained in the student body.

Although it is important that there be both athletic, and non-athletic events, Dick Newell states that, the non-athletic events sponsored by the Student Senate have in the most part been a financial disaster, due to the lack of student interest, where as student interest in athletics has been on the increase.

As far as any expanding of athletics at Lane, Bob Radcliff and Dick Newell state that if there is student interest, and enough people want the sport, (football, for example), that it is possible for them to add the sport to the athletic department as long as funding is possible.

Both Bob Radcliff and Dick Newell are trying to build a first-rate competitive program on the level of the other community colleges around the state, and this can only be done through student interest and the proper funding. Without this there can very well be a reduction in intercollegiate athletics at LCC.

Hunters shoot deer and people too!

by Bill Hirning

It is the time of year when thousands of people arm themselves with high-powered rifles, red caps and lots of intestinal fortitude to traipse the hills in search of the elusive deer.

This year, like so many in the past, will see many of these courageous hunters fall prey to themselves and other careless humans who do not know the difference between a red hat and a white tail. Hundreds of people are killed, maimed and mutilated yearly because of careless hunting techniques. In some areas the human casualty rate is nearly that of the deer.

It is surprising that a hunter can miss a deer at a hundred feet but can pick-off a man wearing a red hat and yellow vest at six hundred yards.

There is a solution—don't go hunting. If this solution is not appealing, take the next best and enroll in the "Hunting in Oregon" class offered by the Adult Education Department. The class meets on Wednesday from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. Interested persons should call the Adult Education Department (ext. 323) or drop by the office on the second floor of the Apprenticeship Building.

Titans score fourth win

by Bill Hirning

The Titan Cross Country team stretched its win record to four this week-end, winning a close contest from Mt. Hood Community College, 26-31.

Although LCC won the team honors, it was a man from Mt. Hood who finished the four mile course timed at 20:31.

Dale Hammitt, a runner who has been finishing consistently in the top five for the Lane team, finished the run second with a time of 20:52.

Jim Browning, another Mt. Hood runner, finished third in 20:59.

The meet win was cinched when three Lane runners—Bill Cram, Randy Griffith, and Bruce Davison—placed 4, 5, and 6.

The number five finisher, and winner of the only other points for LCC, was Mike Monahan who ran ninth.

Dennis Hilliard and Dan VanCamp were 10th and eleventh for the Titans, but only the first five finishers for a team can score points.

The remarkable thing about the whole meet was that all seven Lane runners were within 66 seconds of one another.

Hammitt's time was 20:31; and VanCamp's was clocked at 21:37.

The Cross Country team will travel to Roseburg Saturday for a meet with Umpqua Community College, Chemeteca Community College, Southern Oregon College, and Oregon Technical Institute.

Considering the team strength, Lane has shown that the Titans should win this meet by 15 points.

Lane is my choice to take the OCCAA Championship and the Region 18 title.

Titanettes lose match

Oregon State University's women's field hockey team outlasted the LCC team Monday, 2-1.

Lane's inexperienced team made a good showing against strong OSU. Miss Debbie Daggett, field hockey coach, said her team was working hard to prepare for the season opener and shouldn't be disappointed with the score.

The Lane team hosts Oregon College of Education on October 26 and 29.

LCC Soccer Team

whipped by PSU

Lane's inexperience on the soccer field showed this week-end as Portland State University's 'A' squad trampled the Titans, 16-0.

The lopsided score was attributed not only to the inexperience of the nearly all freshman Titan team, but also to the caliber of the PSU squad.

The loss was not a total loss for the Titans. They got a good look at just how the game should be played and got some good experience playing against some of the better players on the West Coast.

The Lane team travels to Portland for their conference opener against PSU's 'B' team on Saturday, Oct. 23.

Poll says 'legalize dope'

The subject of marijuana has been causing controversy on college campuses across the country for a number of years. Last week TORCH poll-takers questioned LCC students about their feelings on the subject.

Two-hundred fourteen (214) persons were interviewed and the following questions were asked: 1) Do you believe that marijuana should be legalized? 2) If it does become legal, do you believe that the government should control its sale and distribution? 3) What is your age? Students were also asked why they feel as they do.

Those interviewed ranged in age from 17 to 70, and varied from soft-spoken grandmothers to anarchists.

Of the 214 questioned, 139 believed that marijuana should be made legal; 65 felt that it should not. The remaining ten either held no definite opinion or felt they knew too little about the subject to make a decision.

On the subject of government control, the answers were generally less definite. The common feeling seemed to be that some type of control would be necessary, but few felt that control should be handled by the government. The feeling seemed to be that the government has too much control as it is.

Marijuana users feared that government control would cause a decrease in quality and purity as compared to the marijuana they now use. Some felt that it would bring taxation which would increase in the already high price (usually $10-$15 an ounce).

Frequently encountered, particularly among parents questioned, was the opinion that legalization would bring marijuana use out into the open, thus taking away the secrecy and excitement which they feel draws many to the drug. It was also felt that legalization would cause a considerable decrease in crime rate.

There seemed to be general agreement among the majority of students under 25 who were questioned that the anti-marijuana laws will soon be dropped. If this poll is any indication, the recent enactment of the 19-year old vote may cause it to be true.

Children's theater slates Androcles

The Children's Theater at LCC is directed by Lou Salerni, an LCC staff member coordinating the special federally funded program. The actors who perform are from Eugene and the surrounding area, but are not students at LCC. Hopefully in the near future, LCC students will be able to participate in the acting.

A new concept of utilizing the children with the acting will be presented for the Eugene Elementary Schools. Five plays will be presented to four Eugene Elementary Schools including: 1) Patterson, 2) Lincoln, 3) Laurel Hill, and 4) Whitaker. The first play will begin Nov. 17 and 18 with a musical version of "Androcles and the Lion." Other plays are a musical version of "Jack and the Beanstalk" which, in addition, is planned for Lane and families at the end of Feb. The rest of the plays will be familiar children stories.
