Lane's lovers celebrate

by Kelli J. Ray
TORCH Staff Writer

Valentine's Day. A day traditionally set aside for lovers of all ages. And plenty of romances are taking place right here on the LCC campus.

One couple on campus has a special reason to feel romantic this Feb. 14. For Jay Weeden, who delivers campus mail, and Trisha McDonald of Data Processing, this Valentine's Day will also be their wedding day.

The couple met at LCC, where Weeden "delivered her mail for five years," he recalls. "We started dating. We talked about all the different aspects of our thoughts and needs and who we thought we were, and it turns out we fit pretty well together."

The wedding will be held at The Reorganized Latter-day Church off Cal Young Road., which, according to Weeden, is "the bride's church. She's been going there since she was a little girl. We planned a small wedding, but it keeps growing," Weeden says with a smile. "Right now, there are from 40-60 people invited, but we keep thinking of more people we really should invite."

The two plan a honeymoon in Yachats, Oregon, and will leave Feb. 15 for their week-long stay.

Loretta and Guy Plaa, both of the Home Economics Department, don't find more time together since working at LCC, Loretta Plaa says, however, that one advantage is "having the same time off, like holidays. That gives you a chance to plan trips. I've always worked in the summer and this summer I'm not going to work, so we'll be doing more trips, and backpacking together."

"We do a lot of things together, and are very much homebodies. We enjoy our home, and enjoy being together."

Plaa, recalling her first meeting with her husband, says she's a little surprised things turned out as well as they did.

"I was vacationing in Bermuda, and I met him the very first day. I was at the beach, sunning myself, and this strange person with a French accent came up to me with an alarm clock ringing and said, 'The time has come!'" married in Europe, and that's the one place you can be married where you don't have a lot of red tape."

After the wedding, the couple moved to New Jersey, Glennis and Karl Pahlmann celebrate the joy of being a couple.

"And I said to myself, 'Oh, God! Do I need this?' Somehow, it was hard to overcome that foreignness, but we did. And we decided that we wanted to be together, so I got a job working for the Holiday Inn there. So, in a sense, we had our courtship in Bermuda, which is just wonderful. It's so idyllic, it was just unreal to me."

They were married in 1972 in Gibraltar, located between Morocco and Spain. "That's where Yoko Ono and John Lennon were married," Plaa adds. "We wanted to be took a trip to South America, and finally settled in Eugene. Both have worked on campus approximately six years and she feels that they have a lot to share, "in terms of the students, and current things that are happening in terms of nutrition and food. It's nice to know that he's here."

"We leave together, but we don't arrive at the same time. We used to discuss school all the time, and it was awful! I guess as we became more comfortable with what we do, and more confident, there's been less bringing

Board votes on changes

by Karen Irmsher
TORCH Editor

If they'd sold tickets, the monthly LCC Board of Education meeting would have played to a sell-out crowd Wednesday night. Approximately 40 spectators filled the gallery of the Board Room, in contrast to the usual 10 or 15.

Chairman of the board, Jim Pitney, solicited statements from the audience at the beginning of the meeting. Several students and instructors voiced concerns over class offerings being cut, administrators being added, and inadequate access to the decision-making processes.

Faculty union representative Dixie Maurer-Clemons expressed similar concerns in her monthly statement to the board. She said that independent (not union-related) faculty groups have begun to meet off campus "to vent their frustration and work out action plans to reverse what they see as a trend to shut them out of crucial decision-making which directly affects their teaching environment and the learning environment of students."

She concluded by saying that "the unrest and discontent which is occurring on campus at this time is directly related to a perception of the staff that the basic right to know, to question, to give verbal input, and to be listened to -- to participate -- these basic rights are perceived as being thwarted at present." Her speech was followed by a burst of applause from the audience.

(In a brief conversation with the TORCH, Maurer-Clemons said she had seen some positive changes this past week, but still felt it necessary to share with the board what she had been hearing from instructors.)

Board member Bob Bowser reported, "This has been the most active month for letters and phone calls." Other board members also said they appreciated the quantity of information and opinions they had received from the community.

In President Turner's monthly statement to the board, he said, "I encourage people to speak out about concerns he or she may have. You needn't be concerned about speaking out because we're not going to 'getcha' after the meeting."

Bill Berry, vice president for administrative services, said that budget cuts for the rest of this school year will total $600,000, with more than half being taken out of instruction. Capital Outlay (buildings and equipment) will be cut $95,000, Student Services $55,500, Administration $93,930, and the President's Office $23,930.

Gerald Rasmussen, vice president for instruction, said $200,000 of the instruction deficit will be cut by reducing the number of part-time teachers in line with the projected lower spring enrollment, but that the variety of course offerings will not be affected. He stressed that there would be no involuntary staff reductions this spring.

In other business, the board accepted Pres. Turner's plan to restructure the deans, but rejected the hiring of full-time legal counsel. The four positions will be Dean of Community Education and Economic Development, Dean of Off-Campus Centers, Dean of Telecommunications and Instructional Support, and a new position, Dean of Arts, Sciences and Technologies.

Faculty in the audience were assured by both Turner and board members that they would be fully involved in the hiring of the new dean. All changes will start July 1, and the board approved a plan to evaluate the changes next January.

Board member Larry Perry said it is impossible to give an exact figure as to the cost of proposed changes due to unknowns in the qualifications of the person hired. However he and other board members assured the audience that it is not the intention of the board to shift monies to administration from other funds, such as instruction.

AIDS epidemic continues

by Tom Ruggiero
TORCH Staff Writer

The TORCH continues an interview with Sandra Ing, director of Specialized Student Services. Ing has a bachelor of science in nursing from the University of Washington, Wash. and a masters of science in nursing from San Jose State, Calif. She's been at LCC for seven years.

TORCH: There is almost an unnatural fear of AIDS which reminds one of leprosy.

Ing: I would not call it an unnatural fear. It is a really natural fear. It is a fear of the unknown; for the first time in the twentieth century we are dealing with a disease that medical science at this time is impotent against. You are dealing with a new disease so we don't have a lot of history with it; we are dealing with a disease that has a long incubation period, so that raises people's anxiety; and we are dealing with a disease that is almost 100 percent fatal.

TORCH: What are we doing here at LCC about AIDS?

Ing: We are trying here at Student Health to be an accurate, nonhysterical source of information on AIDS. We have information folders which any student can come in and borrow, the latest information on AIDS. I'm working with Larry Warford of the president's office and we are contacting some of the departments where some of their procedures might need to be revised, in order to eliminate a risk of inadvertant transmission.

TORCH: Is there really any risk of that at LCC?

Ing: Obviously the risk of getting AIDS out here on campus is really slim. In general, both sex and I.V. drug use is frowned upon on campus; and those are the two main ways you get AIDS.

TORCH: What other health procedures are you initiating?

Ing: In the Science department we are modifying procedures so that students doing work with blood as part of a learning experience will only work with their own blood or a blood sample which has been cleared through Lane Memorial Blood Bank. In the Health Occupations area people are using proper disposal of needles; keeping the health workers from sticking themselves and putting them

Six-week access for 'Switchboard'

by Tom Ruggiero
 TORCH Staff Writer

Beginning Feb. 17, all LCC students will have free access to Switchboard, Inc., a Eugene-based network of county-wide referral and information services.

Will Grant, executive director of Switchboard, offered his organization's full services, for a six-week trial period at no cost to LCC students, after the Student Resource Center contacted him about Switchboard's Rideshare program, says SRC Director Martin Lewis.

The SRC has received $250 from student government to promote this six-week pilot project (Feb. 17-April 5) which will allow LCC students to take advantage of the many services provided by the non-profit organization, particularly Rideshare, says Lewis.

According to Grant, "Emergency assistance is in greater need than ever due to the high unemployment rate in Lane County," and he would consider the six-week trial period at LCC automatically successful just because Switchboard will become widely known to LCC students.

According to Grant, these services include:

- Alcohol and drug abuse counselor referrals.
- Rent, food, and utilities subsidy referrals
- 24-hour hotline to White Bird Health Clinic

- Local and national ridesharing
- Message service for students without home phones
- Lost and found pet information
- Community events information and calendar

Switchboard, Inc. operates on a "meager" $30,000 a year budget, paying one full and one part-time employee, according to Grant. The service relies primarily on volunteers to manage the largest number of telephone calls received by an organization in the Northwest -- 35,000 last year and an estimated 45,000 to 50,000 this year.

Aided by six new computer-linked telephones, grant says Switchboard's "Alpha File," (information directory) contains over 2,000 entries and is a county-wide "clearing house" for local resources.

He says that in the 17 years that the Rideshare program has been in operation there have been no serious problems involving rides or drivers. Grant attributes this to prospective travelers meeting and talking before the trips to determine compatibility.

Switchboard's largest customer is the U of O, which paid $4,300 this year for its services, says Lewis. Should LCC students utilize the services enough to warrant continuing, the ASLCC may be allocate more money from next year's budget.

ASLCC senate votes to repeal Gramm-Rudman

by Brian Alvstad
 TORCH Staff Writer

The ASLCC Senate endorsed efforts to repeal the federal Gramm-Rudman-Hollings balanced budget law, and thus protect financial aid funding at its Feb. 10 meeting.

In a 7 to 1 vote, the board passed a motion which opposes the law and says that it "poses an obvious threat to the educational experience." Furthermore, the motion says that the ASLCC shall not endorse any cuts in the national education budgets.

The group also passed a motion to allocate $150 to the United States Student Association, to assist in distributing information to other colleges and universities. According to Senator Randy Scovel, the money proves that the Senate is willing to fight budget cuts which adversely effect students.

At the same meeting, Cultural Director Stephan Langdon announced two upcoming lectures by local politicians. Congressman Ed Fodeley, who is running for governor, will speak at 1 p.m. in Forum 309 next Thursday, Feb. 20, and Douglas County Commissioner Bruce Long will talk about his current campaign for congress, Feb. 24 at 11:30 a.m. in the Administration Board Room. Both lectures are open to all students and faculty.

The Senate also voted to remain a member of the "Friends of the LCC Library" fund-raising group by paying the $25 annual fee.

Black History at LCC

by James Thaxton
 TORCH Staff Writer

To commemorate Black History Month, the Multicultural Center is sponsoring several activities for LCC students.

• On Feb. 20, a videotape titled "For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide When the Rainbow is Enuf," a choreopoem by Ntozake Shange, will be shown, free of charge, to the public at 2 p.m. in Center 9 (in the basement).

• In the Multi-Cultural Center, there is a continuing display of famous black women of America, and there will soon be a display of famous black poets and their poems.

• Also, the Black Student Union is sponsoring a dance during Black History Month on Feb. 15, from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Admission is $1 with student ID and $2 without.

At present there are 70 black students attending LCC. This is a nine-percent increase over the attendance record set last term. These students may be interested in contacting the Black Student Union, a campus club that is currently in the process of re-activating. BSU wants to help find ways to promote interest in Black History Month, as well as black Americans' current status and future. To find the BSU, contact Sally Meadows in the Student Government Office. All students are welcome.

Black History Month is an observance held once a year -- in February -- to commemorate the accomplishments of famous black Americans.

The idea of an observance honoring black achievements was proposed in 1926 by Carter G. Woodson, a black historian. Originally, Woodson, also known as the Father of Black History, had established this observance as "Negro History Week," but in the early 1970s it was changed to "Black History Week." The observance was established as "Black History Month" in 1976.

Dear Friend-of-mine,

Thanks for the question! I must confess, I thought researching this answer would be great fun! I figured I'd get to sample the differences and maybe just give you a pimple, I mean simple, answer. But can you imagine walking into Euphoria Chocolate Company or Fenton and Lee Chocolates and walking out a thin person? No such luck: I got the answers over the phone and saved ten pounds!

The main difference between the two chocolates, is measured by the quantity of milk solids added. Milk chocolate has (you guessed it!) milk solids added to the recipe.

Milk chocolates are apt to taste sweeter than other chocolates. It's due, in part, to the lactose (milk's natural sweetener), and to the fact that the milk solids replace quantities of the bitter cocoa in milk chocolate mixtures.

Most of us have found out the hard way that baking chocolate has no sugar. On a scale of bitter-to-sweet, baking chocolate is the most bitter and white chocolate is the most sweet. It's also the highest in calories.

And here's the FDA standard definition of milk chocolate. But brace yourself, chocoholics:

"A milk-chocolate bar is a milk-chocolate bar, according to the FDA, only if it contains not less than 3.66 percent by weight of milk fat, not less than 12 percent by weight of milk solids, and not less than 10 percent by weight of chocolate liquor as calculated by subtracting from the weight of chocolate liquor used, the weight of cacao fat therein, and the weights therein of alkali and seasoning ingredients, if any, multiplying the remainder by 2.2, dividing the result by the weight of the finished milk chocolate, and multiplying the quotient by 100." (It would now appear I need a Ph.D in math to fully understand what's going down!) But wait, there's more:

"In addition, the FDA requires that chocolate bars must contain no more than 60 microscopic insect fragments (including rat feces) per 100 grams of chocolate."

I'd like to thank Bradley R. Schiller, author of "The Economy Today," (page 302) for this wonderful enlightenment.

Well, in spite of the bad news, the good news is that chocolate could be the answer to world peace: It's equal to "love" in any language!

Maybe we could all send a Hershey bar to Russia with love.

Plaa adds that the son they waited 10 years to have, 4 1/2 year old Jacques, has given them something entirely different to talk about.

The Plaas will celebrate their 14th anniversary on Feb. 18.

Glennis and Karl

Pahlmann are two students who find that they're better off growing together intellectually than they would be if only one of them were taking classes.

According to Glennis, the decision to marry was made last February, when "we got in a fight. After I'd been in school for a term, I was growing and he was kind of left in the dust." Karl nods his agreement.

Glennis continues, "He started talking about going to New York. I got mad because I thought he was going to leave. We got into smashing dishes . . . when we fight, we never hit each other, but sometimes the house suffers," she adds smiling.

"A couple of hours later, we were sitting there, stewing, and he said, 'I have a question to ask you, and your answer will help me determine my actions.' Then he said, 'Will you marry me?'"

Karl smiles, adding, "And she said, 'Yeah.' She said it pretty fast, too."

The two met when Glennis was playing rock and roll with Karl's roommate. "I was bass (guitar) player and Karl was our best fan. Since he was in the house, he was our captive audience," Glennis laughs.

They got to know each other better when "we had to sing together," she says. "He had to fill in for our singer, who had left. I was doing back-up vocals, and we had to share a microphone. And suddenly, our noses sparked!" Somehow, an electrical current went between them and created a spark between their noses.

"We really knew something was going on between us then," says Karl. "That's all it took!"

"We still play music," Glennis adds. "He's learning to play bass now. We balance each other out pretty well, I think."

Alex Patty and Kitty Carlson attend LCC high school completion classes, and both find Lane an ideal learning environment.

"I wanted to go to Lane," Carlson says. "This is my first term. I was at South, and he was already out here, so, here I am."

and Lane would," Patty explains. "That was a real opportunity for me. Lane is an A-1 school!"

"We have all our three classes together," she says.

"And we smile throughout them all," he replies.

"Or we try to," she adds.

Carlson plans to enroll in the Creative Institute of Design, to get her license in "hair cutting and nails and so forth," she says. "I hope to get a grant from Financial Aid to go to beauty school."

Patty plans to "attend child psychology classes and try for my master's degree. I'd like to be the director of the children's division at the YMCA."

According to Patty, the two met when "she was a freshman and I was a sophomore. All it took was our eyes meeting, and from one love letter to the next, that was it! She knew I was the man for her!"

Carlson has a slightly different version of the same story. "Well," she says, "he had a girlfriend, but every time I walked past him, he smiled at me and I smiled at him. But we never talked.

Then his girlfriend left him."

"Yeah, she left me," Patty intones.

Carlson glances at him and continues, "He wrote me a long love letter . . . a beautiful poem. Then we got together."

And marriage? "When I'm 25, I'll think about it," Carlson says. After another glance at Patty, she adds, "No -- when I'm 23."

Sandra Ing, director of Specialized Student Services, discusses AIDS epidemic.

TORCH: Multiple partners?

Ing: Someone who has multiple sexual partners increases their risk of any sexually transmitted disease, not just AIDS.

TORCH: And the future?

Ing: We will probably be working in the future for some educational programs for students. Knowledge of AIDS should be integrated into any of the Health classes. The main thing is to get the word out to students. Essentially at this point in time, AIDS is a "lifestyle" disease and a person has it within their power to decrease their risk of exposure.

TORCH: What will LCC do if someone with AIDS enrolls?

Ing: Probably not a lot. Because the person is not going to be a risk to students and staff on campus.

Chemeketa knocks Titan men from first place

by Darren Foss
TORCH Sports Editor

The LCC Men's Basketball team has been the cream of the NWAACC Southern Division crop this season except when they face one team: the Chemeketa Chiefs. With a chance to avenge a loss to them at home, Lane faced the Chiefs in Salem, but it wasn't to be. The Chiefs won to end an otherwise successful week for the Titans and take over first place.

Lane 89, Clackamas 62,

The week started on a better note for Lane, Wednesday night, Feb. 5, when the Titans picked up a big win over the Clackamas Cougars, 89-62 at home.

Clackamas played tough and intense in the first half, and led most of the way, before Lane rallied to grab a 36-34 lead at the break.

The Titans then came out fired-up in the second half on both offense and defense. The Titans' defense held the Cougars scoreless in the second half until the 15:38 mark. LCC's run-and-gun offense outscored the Cougars 12-2 in the first 10 minutes to extend its lead to 48-36, and never looked back.

Near the end of the game Lane executed a rare six-point play. Eric Laakso connected on four-straight free throws after the Clackamas coach received two technical fouls for disputing a non-call by the officials. Lane kept possession following the technicals and Jerome Johnson was then fouled. He added two more free throws to complete the six-point play and put the game out of the Cougars reach, 71-53.

Sophomore Eric Laakso scored a season-high 24 points Wednesday night as the Titans easily defeated Linn-Benton C.C., 95-76

Down the stretch it was showtime for the Titans as they scored the final 14 points of the game. Two slam dunks by the "Titan Skyscraper" 6' 10" Ron Schaffeld, his first of the season, electrified the Titan crowd.

Overall in the second half the Titans outscored the Cougars 53-28 to cruise to an easy 27 point victory.

Team Captain Eric Laakso led the Titans' balanced offense, pouring in 21 points on 7 of 10 from the field and 7 of 8 free throws, while adding 7 assists. Bruce Carter, Ron Schaffeld and Jeff Todd all added 9 points each. Mike Maki and Todd led the Titans on the boards, collecting six rebounds each.

Chemeketa 73, Lane 70,

Then on Saturday, Feb. 8, the Titans took to the road -- for their final league road game -- against their nemesis the Chemeketa Chiefs in a battle for first place. It was the biggest game of the season so far for the Titans. This was a chance to end the season undefeated on the road in league play, but more importantly, clinch the Region IV Division Title. However, Chemeketa spoiled the fun and pulled off a close three point victory, 73-70.

The Chiefs dominated the first half and went in at the break leading 39-34 over the Titans.

Chemeketa capitalized on 27 Lane turnovers for the game, some of which helped CCC expand its lead to 11 with 1:30 left in the game. The Titans cut the lead to three with eight seconds left, but Lane's rally came too late as time ran out.

Johnson led the Titans' offense and almost collected a triple double with 20 points, 9 rebounds, and 8 assists.

Laakso also collected 8 assists along with his 11 points, while Todd chipped in 11 points and Carter added 10.

The loss snapped the Titans' six-game winning-streak on the road and five-game win-streak overall, dating back to the last time Lane faced the Chiefs on Jan. 18. This dropped their league record to 10-2 and overall record to 19-5 with two league games remaining. The Chiefs improved to 11-2 in league with one game to play and took over the top spot in the Southern Division. This is the first time during the league season that Lane has fallen from first place.

Chemeketa is now in the driver's seat for the league championship. If CCC and LCC should tie at the end of the regular league season, CCC will enter the NWAACC Tournament as the No. 1 seed on the basis of its two wins over Lane. The Titans' only chance to win the league title and the No. 1 seed is to win their final two league games at home, and hope the Chiefs lose their final game.

The Titans close out their league season Saturday, Feb. 15, against the Mt. Hood Saints in the Titan gym at 8 p.m.

Titan women end season Saturday

by Steve Chapman
TORCH Sports Writer

LCC's Women's Basketball team was able to outscore the Clackamas Cougars 29-19 in the second half, Wednesday, Feb. 5, but still fell short in the end with the final score going in favor of Clackamas 57-48.

The Titans played catch-up against the Cougars during the second half, after falling to a 38-19 deficit at halftime here at Lane.

Lane shot only 32 percent, (23-71), from the field and 22 percent, (2-9), from the free throw line. Clackamas shot even worse from the field (19-61) for 31 percent, but made up the difference at the foul line, shooting (19-28) for 68 percent.

Nicki Essman was the only Titan in double figures, with 14, followed by Sue Schreiber with 9, and Trina Travess and Sheri Keith with 8 points each.

Chemeketa 65, Lane 46,

Saturday, Feb. 8, the Titan women traveled to Salem to take on the league leading Chiefs from Chemeketa CC. But Lane didn't have much luck there either, as the Chiefs rolled to a decisive 65-46 win over the Titans.

The Chiefs jumped out to an early lead and never looked back as they went into the locker room, up by 15 at the half 30-15. Lane shot 38 percent from the field (20 of 53) while Chemeketa dropped in 27 of 69 shots from the field for 39 percent.

Christi Viltz led the Titans in scoring with 12, while Travess added 10. Schreiber's 7 and Essman's 6 rounded out Lane's top scorers.

The Titan women will finish off their season tomorrow night, Feb. 15, here at Lane against the Mt. Hood Saints at 6 p.m. So come out and cheer the Titans on to victory in their final effort of the season.

W.O.W. HALL BENEFIT

WILLIE DEE AND SHAKUBUKU

The Community Center for the Performing Arts proudly hosts a Valentine's celebration on Friday, Feb. 14, 1986 at the W.O.W. Hall, 8th and Lincoln, in Eugene. Two of Eugene's favorite groups will perform. "Shumba", an 8-piece marimba band, plays traditional and contemporary African dance music. "Willie Dee and Shakubuku" play hearty soul and rhythm and blues. Doors open at 9 p.m. and showtime is 9:30 p.m. Admission is $3.50 at the door. All ages are welcome and adult refreshments are available with I.D. For more information, call 687-2746.

"Shumba" has graciously donated its profits from this show to go to the 1986 "WOW IT'S OURS" fundraiser. Shumba would like to encourage everyone at this time to join in supporting this worthy cause in order for the W.O.W. Hall to remain open.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER

ADVENTURE

HULT FILM SERIES

Renowned adventurer and filmmaker, Rudi Thurau, will be at the Hult Center Tuesday, Feb. 18, to present his new travel film, "Mississippi River Adventure. The film airs at 7:30 p.m. in the Soreng Theatre.

Thurau's film is a visual diary of a 1700-mile river voyage on the longest river in North America. Thurau and his crew travelled the Mississippi, from Montana to New Orleans, aboard a crude raft built of oil drums and wood.

Tickets are $5.50 single admission, or $13.50 for a 3-film series packet. Call 687-5000 for more information.

WOMENSPACE LAP-A-THON

Nearly 100 swimmers from all parts of Lane County will take part in the seventh annual Womenspace Lap-A-Thon Saturday, Feb. 22.

The event accounts for about 10 percent of the agency's annual budget. Those interested in swimming for the lap-a-thon may pick up pledge packets at the following participating pools: River Road, Sheldon, Echo Hollow, the Eugene YMCA, Easter Seal, U of O, and Willamalane.

For more information or to make a pledge, call Womenspace, 485-8232.

ASLCC VOTER REGISTRATION

ASLCC is holding a voter-registration drive running from Friday, Feb. 14 to Friday, Feb. 21. This would be a great opportunity for students to save themselves time and trouble getting registered to vote. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day in the cafeteria and at the SRC. Check the cafeteria announcements for evening registration days and times.

DENALI

Denali, LCC's Literary-Arts Publication, is now accepting submissions of short stories, poetry, essays, photography, and art for its winter issue. For more information and submission forms, see the Denali offices, or call us at 747-4501 ext. 2830.

THE BIG BROADCAST

For laughs, music and nostalgia, don't miss "The Big Broadcast", a rollicking revue of old-time radio at the Hult Center for the Performing Arts. It all takes place Sunday, Feb. 16 at 8 p.m. at the Hult.

THE BIG BROADCAST is a fun-loving, heartwarming chronicle of radio's Golden Age, 1920-1950. The script, compiled from authentic radio broadcasts, features a host of radio greats -- Jack Benny, Will Rogers, the Andrews Sisters, Baby Snooks, The Shadow, and many more. The fast-paced series of vignettes includes comedy, drama, music and dance -- complete with period costumes and an on-stage sound effects booth.

Tickets, on sale at the Hult Center and Hult Center ticket outlets, are $4.50, $6.40 and $8.50 with student discounts for those 16 and younger.

MULTICULTURAL CENTER

OPEN HOUSE

ASLCC and the MCC will hold a joint-effort Open House Thursday, Feb. 20 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the fourth floor of the Center Building. The MCC has many musical events slated: an International Fashion Show, slide shows on China, Greece, Turkey, and Australia.

The ASLCC will host a buffet reception in CEN 449 from 4-6 p.m. All students, staff and faculty are invited to attend.

LIVE FOLK BROADCAST

ON KLCC's SATURDAY CAFE

KLCC 89FM will present live folk music broadcasts as a new special feature during SATURDAY CAFE every other Saturday morning. (Feb. 15 is one of those mornings!) The live presentations will be broadcast from the KLCC studios and hosted by SATURDAY CAFE host, Jamie May. The live broadcast will air from 11-11:30 a.m. and will feature the bluegrass music of Big Sue, Uncle T, and Johnny.

HEALTH OCCUPATIONS

Application packets for LCC's health occupation programs are available at the Admissions Office. Those planning to enroll in any of the health occupations programs in September 1986 should prepare applications before the upcoming deadlines.

NATIONAL COMMUNITY COLLEGE MONTH

The Lane Community College Board of Education has followed the lead of President Ronald Reagan and Governor Victor Atiyeh in endorsing February as National Community College Month.

In their resolution, the board noted that "fifty-five percent of all persons who enter higher education begin in the nation's community colleges" and urged the college and the community to help recognize "the considerable contributions of these 'invented-in-America' educational institutions."

In observance of community college month, LCC focused on the annual presentation of vocational educator awards at a ceremony Wednesday evening, Feb. 12. Also, on Feb. 20, Dale Parnell, LCC's founding president and now president of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges in Washington, D.C., will visit campus. Parnell is expected to announce that he is establishing a collection of his papers about community colleges to be housed at LCC.
