

Inklings

The LCC Library's Newsletter for Faculty
Fall 2022

New Library Instruction Approaches

Over the past few years, Library faculty have noticed that instructors are incorporating information literacy and Library instruction into their courses in a variety of new ways, such as short videos, links to our Research Toolkit, and others.

The LCC Library has designed a new Instruction Request Form to help us reach out to you and your students in more ways than ever before. The form allows you to select from a wide range of options—everything from a short 10-minute introduction to the Library from a librarian whom students get to meet, to a fully embedded librarian in your course. Fill out our new form to get in touch!

Our Kanopy Film Collection Is Bigger and Better than Ever!

The Library has subscribed to a large collection of additional titles on Kanopy called the BASE Collection. It includes over 8,000 titles you can link to in your Moodle courses. Kanopy is an especially rich source of documentaries. To view all our currently licensed films, please visit our homepage on Kanopy.

LinkedIn Learning for Students or Professional Dev.

Use LinkedIn Learning (formerly known as Lynda.com) to acquire new professional or personal skills. LinkedIn Learning is a collection of online video courses taught by industry experts in software, creative, and business skills. You can browse through an overview of their content here. There are some surprising courses, including our most popular, "Working and Collaborating Online." Link to individual items, or embed entire LinkedIn Learning courses into your Moodle class. Sponsored by the LCC Library. Instructors should contact the Academic Technology Center (atc@lanecc.edu) for help incorporating LinkedIn Learning items into Moodle.

Wunderkammer - Cabinet of Wonder Need a break from ... thinking? Visit the Cabinet of Wonder display (near the blue elevator inside the Library) to reflect on the impulse to collect: gatherings of small things that give us hope, make us wonder about the

Hispanic & Latino/a Literature

Celebrate the diversity of Spanish-language and Latino/a literature and poetry! This display features writers from across Latin America, Spain, and the U.S. If you are looking for literature in Spanish, visit our new Libros en español collection. This collection gathers our Spanish-language books in one place for easy browsing.

Banned Books Display

More books are being challenged in libraries and schools than ever before. In 2021 alone, 1,597 books were affected by censorship attempts. Visit the display "Read Banned Books!" in the Library. Peruse the wide range of challenged titles, and read one for yourself. Read banned books!

JF 10/22-508

